Cahalan eyes press conference on shooting

By KEVIN FOLEY
Daily Eagle Staff Writer

A news conference has been scheduled tentatively for tomorrow at which time Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan is expected to make an announcement as to whether warrants will be issued against officers involved in the recent STRESS shooting.

Jim Ransom, executive assistant to the prosecutor, said Cahalan and Assistant County Prosecutor James N. Garber had met with investigators from the Detroit Police Department yesterday to go over all the evidence amassed so far.

Some criminal warrants are expected to be issued, but the nature and extent are items for speculation only. However, a Detroit Police Department source said he believed that no murder warrants would be requested or issued and that the charges against the officers involved would not go beyond assault. Should Cahalan make an announcement tomorrow, it will climax nearly two weeks of investigation into the March 9 shooting in a Detroit apartment that resulted in the death of one Wayne County Sheriff's deputy, the critical wounding of another and the less serious wounding of two more deputies.

Henry Henderson, 40, a Wayne County Jail guard, was fatally shot by a Detroit police officer in the second floor flat at 3210 Rochester St. shortly after midnight. Deputy James Jenkins, 29, suffered a gunshot wound to the head and has lost the use of one eye. Deputy Henry Duvall, 24, was shot in the leg and has since been released. Aaron Vincent, 23, the tenant of the apartment, alleges he was beaten by several Detroit police.

The fifth deputy in the room, David E. Davis, and a civilian, Richard Sain, were not hurt. The deputies charge that they were attacked by three off-duty members of the Detroit police's STRESS (Stop The Robberies, Enjoy Safe Streets) unit, who, the deputies claim, opened fire on

Brandt St. residents win; two-way parking allowed

An amendment to Romulus' Fire Lane Ordinance providing for the deletion of all 37-foot or wider streets in the City of Romulus from the code has been approved by the city council.

Council's action followed lengthy discussions last Thursday night on the merits of changing the present provisions of the ordinance. The roll call vote of the council was 5-1 for amending the ordinance.

Councilman William M. Oakley, who presided at the council session in the absence of Council President Jimmie Raspberry, opposed the change in the ordinance.

The decision of the council was considered a victory for Mrs. Lynne Slaughter of 30510 Dorset St., Romulus.

The ordinance change will now permit parking on both sides of Brandt Street, a main artery into the Oakbrook Subdivision.

Some Brandt Street residents, led by Mrs. Slaughter, requested parking on both sides of the street.

They contended the 37-foot wide street is wide enough to permit parking on both sides and still maintain its fire lane and school bus designations. The Romulus Police and Fire Department, as well as the transportation division of the Romulus Community School District, opposed any change in the present parking regulations for Brandt Street, which permitted parking only on one side.

A legal opinion from the city attorney requested by the council stated it could approve parking on both sides of Brandt but would have to do it by amending the ordinance. To avoid any discrimination, the council in its order included all 37-foot or wider streets in the city to be deleted from the ordinance.

Council to okay employe pact

By HENRY CANTIN

The Romulus City Council is expected to formally approve a three-year employment contract covering city employes this week.

The finalization of the new contract's language and terms relative to working conditions, salary and wage hikes and fringe benefits was to be presented to the city council at an executive session Tuesday night.

Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael, with his administrative aides and officials of Local 214 of the Teamsters, State, County and Municipal Workers, conducted lengthy contract sessions last Friday and again on Monday finalizing specific areas of the contract for submission to the city council.

The union members employed by the city (40 to 50 employees) approved the new contract by a vote of 22-20 on March 1 after a 13-day strike.

The contract as agreed upon by negotiators of the city and union raises wages and salaries 17 to 51 per cent over the next three years.

The contract calls for a 13 per cent pay hike in the first year and six per cent hikes in the second and third years. The pay raises in excess of those currently provided under the present guidelines of the U.S. Pay Board will require that group's approval.

All city employes will immediately receive a 5.5 per cent (or higher) pay boost. City officials have, it was reported, agreed to appear before the federal pay board to see if the city employes can receive more than the federal guidelines.

The strike began on Feb. 17 over non-economic issues, including previously obtained employment benefits which the city proposed to eliminate or reduce.

Under the new terms of the new job pact, the 13 per cent pay increase is retroactive to

Nov. 14 the start of Phase Two of the Presidential Wage and Price Freeze Program.

Both secretarial and clerical employes under the new contract will receive a 13 per cent pay hike in the first year of the contract, with the increase percentage above the 5.5 per cent subject to federal pay board approval.

The employees at the Department of Public Works will receive pay boosts ranging from 19 to 54 per cent, depending upon their classification.

The city's building inspectors will receive a pay hike of $2,500 in the first year and 6.5 per cent hikes in the second and third years. Building inspectors are currently receiving annual salaries of $8,500.

The payment of the increased salary and wage hikes awaits final approval by the city council, which is expected to act this week.

Union leaders and employes credited Mayor Carmichael's continued efforts in keeping the parties at the negotiating table for the contract settlement.

The three major areas of concern, involving longevity, unused sick leave and arbitration of grievances, were the basis of the first strike in the history of the city.

The union insisted these benefits, won by employes under the old contract, which expired in April, 1971, be continued as provided. The city's position was that the city council should have the Doctor fined, put on probation

Dr. Elvis S. Alford, 63, of 20 Liberty St., Belleville, has been fined $10,000 and placed on two years probation for income tax evasion.

U.S. District Court Judge Damon J. Keith in Detroit imposed the sentence on Dr. Alford, who was the co-founder of the Belvill Community Hospital, following the doctor's plea of nolo contendere to one count of income tax evasion.

Dr. Alford was indicted by a federal grand jury in Detroit on five counts of income tax evasion in June, 1971. He entered his "no contest" plea to one count of the indictment on Jan. 19.

The income tax evasion charges against Dr. Alford covered the years from 1954 to 1967.

The doctor, according to the indictment, was accused of evading his income taxes during the years 1964-68 by failing to report more than $100,000 of income and failing to pay $26,000 in taxes over the five-year span.

The maximum penalty Dr. Alford could have received to his plea of nolo contendere to one count of the five-count indictment was five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

In addition to the fine assessed by the court, Dr. Alford still will have to pay the back taxes plus interest, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Loren G. Keenan, who is in charge of the federal case.

The count on which Dr. Alford was sentenced involved the year 1966.

In that year, Dr. Alford reported a taxable income of only $9,629, while the Internal Revenue Service agents reported his income was $30,635.

In dropping the other four counts, Judge Keith ordered Dr. Alford to pay back taxes plus interest on them.

Dr. Alford, who co-founded Belleville's 70-bed medical facility, was its chief operating officer until 1966.

The taxable income that Dr. Alford failed to include in his returns and allegedly did not report in the years cited in the indictment was as follows:

In 1964 reported income of $5,500, failed to include $27,200.

In 1965 reported $6,500 in income, failed to include $28,100.

In 1966 reported $9,600, failed to include $30,600.

In 1967 reported loss of $7,200 and failed to report adjusted gross income of $15,000.

In 1968 reported a loss of $5,200 and failed to report an adjusted gross of $12,500.

The indictment charges Dr. Alford paid an income tax of $1,100 in 1964 should have reported $7,400; in 1965 paid $1,200 and should have reported $7,300; in 1966, he paid an income tax of $2,100 and should have reported $8,500; in 1967, paid a tax of $371 and should have reported $1,800 and in 1968, he paid a tax of $271 and should have reported $1,400.

Urban renewal bids sought for Phase 1

Three requests submitted by Romulus Urban Renewal Director George Wilhelm toward further development of the city's first phase of its urban renewal program have been approved by the Romulus City Council.

A request that Wade, Trim & Associates of Taylor, city engineers, be authorized to advertise for bids for project improvements, including grading, paving and drainage within the Wayne-Beverly Renewal Project, located at Wayne and Beverly roads, Romulus, was approved.

The bidding procedures and contract forms are to be in conformance with guidelines set forth by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The city's first phase of its urban renewal program involves 175 of the 575 acres of land that are embraced in the total urban renewal program.

The second request involved an accounting contract between the firm of Urban Technical Staff & Associates and the city.

The contract with the firm was continued for 1972-73 at a cost of up to $6,000. The firm is to be paid for actual service rendered the city and was paid $2,099 on last year's contract.

The council also approved the renewal of a rental lease at the current offices of the Urban Renewal Agency, located at 6446 S. Wayne Rd. Romulus at a monthly rental of $125.

Lenten season

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following is the sixth in a series of Lenten sermons by area pastors and leading churchmen. This week's article was submitted by the Rev. Harold E. Koch, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Apostles of Belleville.

By REV. HAROLD E. KOCH

As this is being written, I am awaiting the doctor's report of the result of an exploratory operation. What is causing this person's pain and misery? What needs to be done to restore good health? Major surgery? Minor corrective surgery? Constant medication? Change in dietary habits? Many questions come to mind as one wonders what the doctors will learn from this exploratory operation. But we must wait to hear from the doctors.

Lent is a time that provides a similar experience. Those who think through the meaning of this penitential season of the church year usually receive new insights.

The 40-day period that begins with Ash Wednesday and concludes with the Resurrection on Easter Sunday is a time for meditating on the great love of God that led St. John to write, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life."

Lent really causes us to look in two directions. We look to God and his love; his justice, his concern, his righteousness, his expectations, his judgment, his compassion, his kindness, his forgiveness, and all of the other attributes that make God the complete and holy Person that He is.

When we hear Jesus say, "You, therefore, must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect," it causes us to look in the other direction — toward ourselves.

The Lenten look at ourselves reveals the shortcomings, the failures, the willfulness, the plain old disobedience that makes us less than perfect. We see ourselves as sinners in need of salvation. It has been said that sin is not just "missing the mark." It is rather "willful aiming in the wrong direction."

Lent is a time for seeing most clearly who God is and who He expects us to be. It is also a time for seeing how far short we fall from God's hopes for us.

On STRESS killing

Cahalan eyes press meeting

them even after they had identified themselves as police.

The STRESS officers contend that they followed Deputy Jenkins into the apartment when they saw him exit a car with what they thought was a gun in his hand. The men said they did not receive an answer when they announced themselves, and entered after they had flashed their badges.

Investigators have now established that both sides fired several shots and that the shot that killed Deputy Henderson came from the gun of a uniformed officer who had responded to an "officer in trouble" call, and not from the gun of a STRESS member.

Detroit Police Commissioner John Nichols last week denied charges made by Duvall that his department was trying to "whitewash" the incident. "Nobody's trying to whitewash anything," Nichols said. "We're collecting as much evidence as possible and we expect the full investigation to be completed this week."

Since the shooting, an angry outcry against the controversial STRESS unit has arisen from Detroit's black community. Several leaders have called for the total abolishment of STRESS, an undercover unit that has been responsible for the deaths of 14 suspected felons in its 14 months of existence.

The unit has also racked up an impressive arrest record in high crime areas, 792 felony warrants and the confiscation of 581 handguns.

Mayor Roman S. Gribbs and Nichols both have dismissed the idea of abolishing STRESS.

Nichols did announce, however, that several changes will be made in the STRESS operation. Nichols said that all candidates for the unit will now undergo extensive psychological testing, and that more veteran supervisors, sergeants, will stay in close contact with on-the-street members of the decoy team.

Rezoning for gas station denied by Romulus council

The Romulus City Council has denied a request from Marathon Oil Co. for a rezoning of the northwest corner of Middlebelt and Ecorse roads to allow for construction of a service station.

The Southfield oil firm owning the land parcel at the intersection sought a zoning change from C-2 general business to C-3 (highway services).

The city's planning commission previously had recommended approval of the rezoning request.

The roll call vote of the city council was 3-2 for the rezoning denial. Councilmen Fred Junior Block and William M. Oakley opposed and Councilman Brooker R. Edwards abstained from voting.

Councilman James C. Stewart led the opposition to the firm's rezoning petition, pointing out there are three gas service stations in the area and added that, in his opinion, there are "too many" stations in the city, especially in some areas where they are

In our opinion

Representation without taxation is wrong too

"Taxation without representation" was one of the battle cries of the Revolutionary War almost 200 years ago. Now we're faced with the reverse situation, "Representation without taxation."

Both situations we feel are wrong. We're not arguing with the right of 18-year-olds to vote. It is the law of the state and we will support it.

However, it is not right for someone being able to vote in elections that can determine property tax rates or to hold offices that would allow them to levy taxes when they are not taxpayers themselves.

Simply put, we do not understand why a college student living in a state owned dormitory, which contributes nothing to its local governmental agencies in the way of property tax, should be allowed any say in the amount of property taxes paid by others in that community, such as Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, East Lansing, etc.

In fact, it is our understanding that - other than Michigan and Michigan State - universities in Michigan don't even contribute to their local communities' police and fire protection, while those same universities certainly draw from the communities' tax bases.

We are not referring to any elections in which student would be eligible to participate at his official residence - in the case of a dormitory resident, his parents' home - such as national or statewide elections. He can participate in those elections by absentee ballot.

If students live off campus they - like any other renter or homeowner - should be entitled to the residency privileges of those living around them since they also have the others' residency obligations, namely the paying of taxes to his new community either directly or through rent.

While the damage such injustices can bring about hasn't occurred anywhere yet to our knowledge, we can see it coming in communities in which the student population is greater than that of the city proper.

In other words, students in a college larger than the city around it could dictate from the confines of their dorm rooms how much property tax regular residents of the community would have to pay regardless of how - in theory - all of those regular residents voted. All of this could take place without the students having to fork over a penny of their own.

The same argument should hold true for out-of-state tuition. We must assume that out-of-state students come to Michigan schools because they like something about our schools more than those in their own states or countries.

That something they like is there simply because residents of Michigan have paid for it through state taxes down through the years. Hence, it wouldn't be fair to Michigan students, or their parents for that matter, to be forced to seek their education elsewhere because something better about our schools attracts out-of-state students.

The out-of-state tuition can be a mighty discouraging factor when it comes to deciding what school someone wants to attend.

If an out-of-state student wishes to set up an official residence - and that should mean elsewhere than on tax exempt property - he would be eligible to become a Michigan resident, should he desire to do so, and receive full residency privileges.

The students might retort with the fact that, by living in the community whether in a dormitory or not, they would be paying at least one state tax, the sales tax.

However, that shouldn't be a legitimate argument either since a person taking an extended vacation in another state would be paying sales taxes there and wouldn't be eligible to vote in an election taking place in that state.

He also wouldn't be losing his voting privileges in his hometown provided he made arrangements for an absentee ballot.

Spring has arrived

Now the fairest season of them all, Spring, has taken its place in the turn of the seasons. This year spring arrived officially at 7:22 a.m. Monday.

As the sun moves further into the northern latitudes, it will bring with its warmth the flights of migratory birds, the greenness of new grass and the sound of new life quickening all around us.

The sweetness of early flowers will be with us again.

In this year of 1972, we, as a people, need much faith and we need confidence in our own ability to bring the light of new reason and persuasion to bear on old problems as we seek to end a war, to talk with our enemies, to guide our nation through the search for greater individual security and opportunity while preserving the freedom without which life is not worth living.

As the gentle warmth of first of the first Spring day and the dappled shade of new leaves move across the land, the freshness of the season will bring a new enthusiasm for the unfolding life that lies before us.

Fund-raising groups look for assistance

By THEODORE F. KUCKELMAN, Executive Secretary
Belleville Chamber of Commerce

Caveat for Fund Raisers - More and more fund-raising organizations are seeking active assistance or the "good name" of local business and professional people. Be extra careful. You could have your name allied with a sloppy or even shady operation.

According to a recent memo from the Council of Better Business Bureaus, you should ask the following questions before you give money, assistance or your name to a charitable group.

- Has the organization complied with all state and local laws?

- Is there a definite need for the charity? Will it duplicate the work of an existing agency?

- Who is promoting it? Will the promoter get any financial benefit?

- Will only a reasonable percentage of the income be used for overhead, advertising, fund-raising and promotion? More than 15 to 20 per cent is too much.

- Are you willing to have your closest personal friends donate to the cause solely because your name appears as one of the sponsors?

- Are you willing to devote sufficient time of your own to make sure the organization's management is honest and effective?

Speaking of schools

Voters thanked for support

By ROBERT L. MCCONEGHY, Superintendent of Romulus Schools

A comment or two on the millage election - Naturally, I was very pleased with the result, as were the members of the board of education.

Our thoughts about the future would have been much different had the election outcome been one of defeat. I would have been charged with the responsibility of recommending to the board of education the cutbacks necessary to reduce the operating budget by 25 per cent. This would have been a most unpleasant task.

Discussion and final decisions on cutbacks also would have been an unpleasant task for the board of education. The news concerning such cutbacks also would have been unpleasant for the total school community, especially the students.

On behalf of the board of education, I want to thank all those organizations and individuals who actively participated and supported the passage of the millage.

Much credit must be given to Mrs. Fran Petre, the president of the Romulus Area PTA Council, whose organization picked up the challenge and spearheaded the election campaign. Her steering committee made up of representatives from local PTAs, the Jaycees, REA and others, established the election publicity format, and assignments were readily accepted and carried through to a successful conclusion.

To the 1,224 "yes" voters, I am hopeful that your "no" vote was not so much a vote against the schools as against taxation in general.

Reform relative to financing school operation is much in the news now. Before that comes to pass, however, there must be a compromise between the two political parties as to the best method of achieving reform.

Vote for lottery fights crime

Sen. JOHN A. McCauley, 11th District

When the voters go to the polls for the May primary, they will have an opportunity to do two things with one vote.

By voting in favor of the constitutional proposal that would permit a state lottery, the voter can establish what amounts to a voluntary tax, while at the same time striking a severe blow at organized crime.

It has been clear to me for more than two years that the vast majority of the people of Michigan are fed up with compulsory taxation. The letters I received in support of my refusal to extend the income tax increase underlined that fact.

The letters and telephone calls that I have received over the past few months concerning the property tax makes it obvious that if the members of the State Legislature are to fulfill their responsibilities to the people who elected them they must take positive action to reduce property taxes.

At the same time, it is also painfully apparent that despite the best efforts of the legislature, state spending will continue at a distressingly high level. If it is true that the people have had enough of high compulsory taxation, yet the demands for state services are also high, then it follows that the answer is voluntary taxation.

A state lottery fits that definition. No one would be compelled to buy a lottery ticket. No one would be forced to pay the tax revenue which is the fundamental purpose of a lottery.

The idea of a lottery for public purposes is not new. Ben Franklin established such a system before this country became a nation. The experience of New Jersey shows that a well run lottery can produce substantial revenue for the state; just as the experience of New York shows that a poorly run lottery will not produce the money anticipated.

Based on the information that I have assembled ever since starting this fight to let the people decide on a state lottery years ago, it would appear that Michigan will realize between $100 to $129 million a year if the people support my position.

That is not the whole story. I am reliably informed that the illegal numbers racket is the financial backbone of organized crime in Michigan. The numbers provide the capital the hoods need to finance their dirty operations in drugs, prostitution, the infiltration of legitimate business, and a host of other illegal and immoral acts.

By pulling the pin out of the unholy interlocking structure of organized crime, by severely cutting into the financial base of that evil underground machinery that wrecks the lives of so many families and individuals, we can improve our society.

There will be those who say that a state lottery merely legitimizes a bad activity. To those people, let them consider the facts as they are, not as we hope them to be. We may never have a society in which all members are as we would hope them to be.

Indeed the moguls of organized crime have recognized this fact, and that is why they have reaped the huge profits that they have reaped.

The proposal for a state lottery represents the culmination of many years of thought and effort on my part and on the part of a substantial number of my colleagues to meet two needs in this State.

It is not a total answer to many of our problems, but, it does represent a giant step forward in the battle to control compulsory taxation and to defeat organized crime.

Belleville mayor cities stadium financing

Letter to the editor:

For several years, newspapers, television and radio have extolled the virtues of the stadium and what it can do for Detroit and Wayne County.

The other side of the picture, in my opinion, has not been presented to the public. It is heartwarming to me that at least two state officials, James F. Marling, director of the Municipal Finance Commission, and Mrs. Maxine Virtue, assistant state attorney general, have had the common sense and plain "guts" to point out the shortcomings and fallacies that were contained in the application submitted for approval for bonding the stadium.

To the best of my knowledge, there has been no municipally financed stadium in the entire United States that has been self-supporting. Eventually "Mr. Taxpayer" has to subsidize the operation of the stadium under some guise or other.

My congratulations to these two public officials, who took the unpopular stand by pointing out, with good common sense, some of the many fallacies surrounding the promotion of this stadium. My files are full of letters from people who oppose this stadium. If ever the proposition was put to a vote of the people, I have no doubt as to what the outcome would be.

Faust lauds Michigan student research group

College students who are attempting to establish a state-wide, student funded organization to help protect the "public interest" have received the public endorsement of State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland). "Those students now organizing the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) have my admiration as well as my strong support," said Faust.

"This student-controlled organization, to be staffed by a firm of full-time professional personnel working on such critical problems as the environment and consumer protection, will give students an effective means through which to accomplish responsible change."

"More importantly, PIRGIM will provide a mechanism for responsible citizen action, a mechanism to solve the many problems faced by our society and of particular concern to Michigan citizens."

An organizational plan for PIRGIM indicates the professional team will work in conjunction with student researchers and faculty advisors, under the policy guidance of a student board of directors.

The group is paid with funds raised and allocated by students and concentrates on representation of student and citizen causes before the courts, the legislative and the public.

Over 15,000 students at the University of Michigan have signed petitions, which have been presented to the U-M Board of Regents asking that students there be assessed $3 per school year to fund the program.

The petitions also ask that the university serve as a collection agency.

Similar student organizations have been organized in the states of Oregon, Minnesota, Vermont, Southern California and South Carolina.

According to Faust, some key members of the Michigan legislature have also endorsed PIRGIM.

Thoughts at Easter Time

For ages now, we've honored men,
For the deeds that they have done,
Like building kingdoms, winning wars,
And scientific problems won.

Since time began this has been so.
We've pinned medals on their chests,
Or built a tomb, or statue,
For their special plade of rest.

These heroes have most been learned men,
From the elite, around the world.
Men of prominent families or -
Of battle flags unfurled.

But only one man has walked this earth,
With real hope for everyone,
He was neither rich nor famous
But only a carpenter's son.

Residents object to Van Buren kennel

Petitions signed by approximately 72 residents of the Lake Pointe Pass area in Belleville objecting to the operation of nearby dog kennel have been presented to the Van Buren Township Board.

The residents complained about noise from barking dogs, which they claim come from the kennel.

They asked the township board to cancel all kennel licenses in the area and asked that no new ones be issued.

The board deferred action pending an investigation by township officers.

'Mission Impossible's' Mr. Fix-it

Morris' role opens other doors

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Gregg Morris, "Mission: Impossible's" electronics wizard since its beginnings six years ago, returned to the East Coast the other day for a short visit before returning to his screw drivers and wire snippers for a seventh year of trapping villains.

Gregg has found his role of Barney Collier opening all sorts of show business doors which are closed to newcomers. He has played more than 30 roles in films and guest shots on other TV series and even turned out a record album.

"But I seem to be turned on by kids," he said. "The thing I really enjoy is working with them and for them."

Married and with three youngsters of his own ranging from 10 to 15, Morris is forever cutting out of Hollywood for cerebral palsy telethons, hospital visits or trips to schools—preferably in deprived sections, to sit down for rap sessions with student.

Some of his concern for young people probably stems from his own peripatetic up-

A crying shame

WATFORD, England (AP) — When amateur actress Lynda Savory had a baby, the local dramatics group was delighted to know the child would provide the recorded sound effects for their latest play. But since rehearsals began, baby Alan hasn't shed a tear for the tape recorder which is switched on day and night.

"My husband and I haven't had a quieter time for months," Lynda said. "It looks as if Alan won't play bawl."

Star influenced

NEW YORK (AP) — Allen Swift was a child when he saw a movie of the late Maurice Chevalier. He began imitating the French actor's voice for relatives and friends.

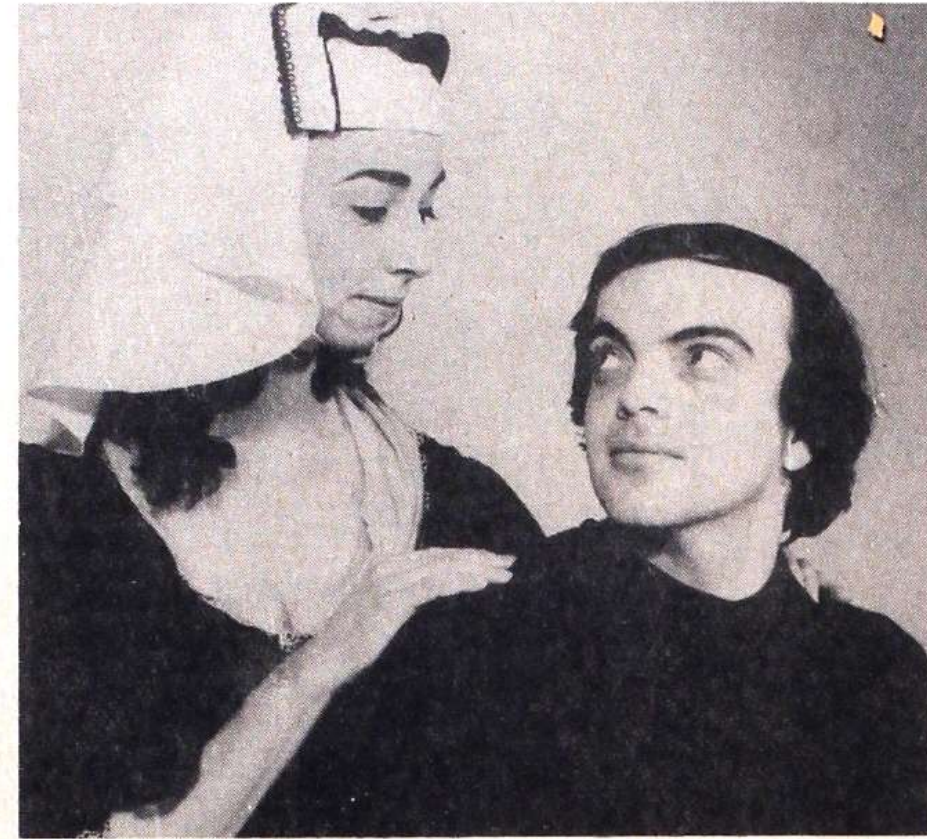

Today, Swift is a voice specialist for radio and television commercials. Others who inspired his career include Will Rogers and Zasu Pitts.

bringing. Born in Cleveland, he lost his father when he was young, and traveled around the country as his mother's jobs changed. He lived in New York's Harlem, Poughkeepsie, went back to Cleveland. He says that as a lonely 15-year-old he was introspective and even then beginning to live by a code of what he calls "introspective egoism"—belief in himself. "I heard a man named Emmett Fox say 'God is within me and therefore I am,'" Morris explained. "It was one of those things that instantly made complete sense and it changed everything for me. After that I always believed that somewhere there would be success for me."

A handsome, tall man, Morris also knows that luck has played a part in his success as a performer. After working his way through Ohio State and the University of Iowa, he got a part in a West Coast company of "A Raisin in the Sun." He hit Hollywood in 1961 and never left. It was the beginning of the period when a black actor could hope to make a living at his craft.

"I've done well," he said. "Now I feel I can help pass some of it on."

'LUTHER' PLAYERS — Maryellen Clemons and Lee Smith as Katherine and Martin Luther play leads in John Osborne's controversial 1961 drama "Luther." The award-winning drama opens at the Hilberry Theatre at Wayne State University on April 6. Tickets are available from the theatre box office at 577-2972.

Station appeals for funds

The studios which once rang with the cry "Hi Ho Silver" may have to call upon a modern day Lone Ranger, or at least a liberal donation of silver to save them from impending doom.

John Buckstaff, manager of Wayne State University's public radio station WDET-FM, says the station will probably have to go off the air this year if it can not raise at least $65,000.

"Our operating costs are nearly $200,000 a year, said Buckstaff. "In the past, Wayne State has provided more than half the funds we need to stay on the air as part of its contribution to the culture and continuing education of the community."

"Unfortunately, the university is in a fiscal crisis and has been forced to cut all areas drastically. WDET-FM must get more financial support from the community or die," said Buckstaff. As a public radio station, WDET, 101.9 is prohibited from carrying commercials. A letter from Buckstaff appealing for funds will be included in the WDET Program Guide for April. Tax-deductible contributions may be sent to WDET-FM, c/o John Buckstaff, 5035 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48202.

Benefits open three theatres

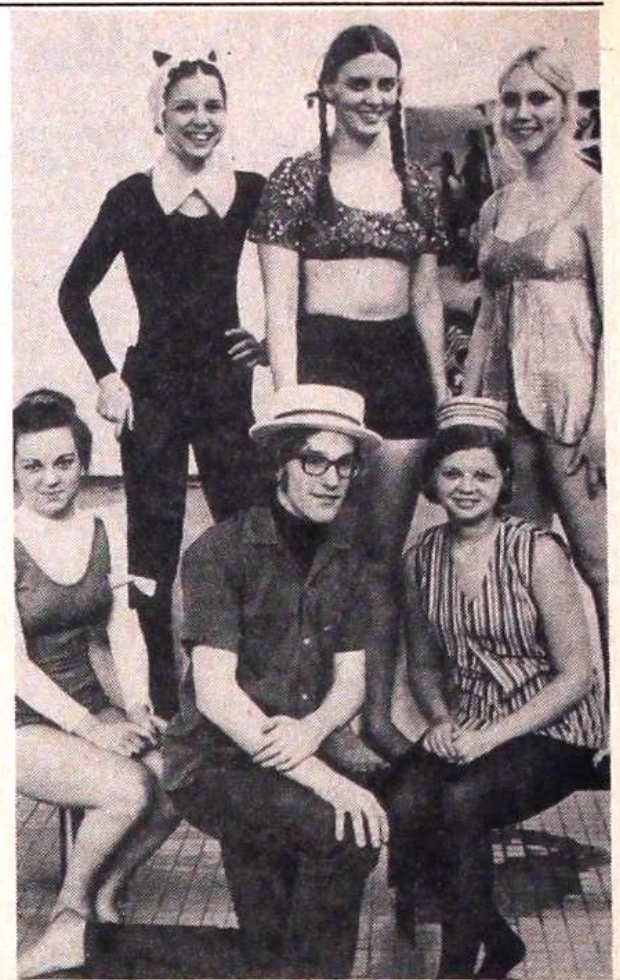

The Americana complex of Theatres I, II and III opens Wednesday to the general public with a total of 3,263 seats in its three auditoriums, making it the largest suburban motion picture facility in Michigan, but it will have been "previewed" in advance by hundreds of people attending three different charity events.

The lead-off event was Monday night, when the Federation of Scottish Societies and Social Clubs sponsored a benefit premiere of "Mary, Queen of Scots," a new film that has been nominated for five Academy Awards, including one for Vanessa Redgrave as best actress.

A second benefit performance of "Mary, Queen of Scots" was Tuesday evening in Americana III, sponsored by the Country Day School.

"The Godfather" was unveiled at Americana I Tuesday evening at 8:15 p.m. at a benefit performance sponsored by the Police Athletic League of Detroit, charitable group which sponsors recreational activities for underprivileged children.

"What's Up Doc," starring Barbra Streisand and Ryan O'Neal, was to have its first showing with the grand opening of the complex at noon today when it began its engagement at Americana II.

SEA SPRITE SHOW — These Sea Sprites posed just long enough to have their picture taken before they plunged into the water to rehearse for their upcoming aquatic production "Sounds of Music." The show begins tonight at 8 p.m. in the Wayne Memorial High School pool and runs through Saturday. Tickets will be sold at the door. Wayne resident's works in college faculty show

This year's faculty art show at Henry Ford Community College is larger and more diverse than ever before, says

Gawaine Dart, chairman of the art department. Dart, a Wayne resident, is nationally known for his work in oils and ceramics.

The art show including Dart's work, will be on exhibit until March 31 from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the lobby of the Science Building, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn.

"The trend away from traditional oil painting techniques toward new modes of expression using acrylic media are seen in the painting of two of our staff members," said Dart.

He indicated that the show offers many pieces of sculpture.

While the purpose of the exhibition is to motivate students to an awareness of the skills of their instructors, area residents are invited to view the show free of charge.

On exhibit will be examples of drawing, painting, macrame, sculpture and ceramics.

Madonna Theatre offers first play

The Madonna College Theatre will be presenting its first production, Patrick Hamilton's play, "Angel Street" on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday at the Madonna College Activities Building on Levan and Schoolcraft roads in Livonia.

"Angel Street" is a melodramatic story of the Mannings of Angel Street. Under the guise of kindness, the handsome Mr. Manningham tortures his wife into insanity. Since her mother died of insanity, Mrs. Manningham is more than half convinced that she, too, is going out of her mind.

While her diabolical husband is out of the house, a benign police inspector visits her and ultimately proves to her that her husband is a maniacal criminal suspected of a murder committed 15 years ago in the same house, and proves that he is preparing to dispose of her. Then the game begins of trying to uncover the necessary evidence against Mr. Manningham.

The performances will be at 8 p.m. in the Activities Building. Admission price is $2 for adults and $1 for students and children.

Lenten season

It is a time to throw ourselves into the hands of the Great Physician who can and will help us perform our exploratory operation and determine what needs to be done to correct the situation.

Our physical needs differ; so do our spiritual needs differ. However, as the Great Physician takes over, he brings healing and health and wholeness to the life that is fragmented and painful because of the ravages of sin.

When one really encounters himself and his problems in the light of God's exploratory operation, the Resurrection truly becomes a reality in his life. He too experiences newness of life.

On Easter Sunday he can truly sing, "Because He lives, we also shall live." Halleluia!

County board gets new face

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will begin operating through a dramatically streamlined committee structure, designed to speed up the legislative process, on April 1.

The board approved the new setup March 16.

The present structure of 14 standing committees, two special committees and 11 subcommittees is reduced to five committees and one subcommittee.

The time taken to consider many items will be reduced by as much as four weeks, predicted Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick, who proposed the new structure.

Of the present structure, only the Ways and Means Committee, consisting of all 26 commissioners, and its special budget subcommittee, will be retained.

Matters now handled by the other committees will be distributed among four new committees - Human Resources, General Government, Public Works, and Public Safety and Judiciary.

A key change is elimination of the committee-of-the-whole session now held at each full board meeting. At present, all items from committees other than Ways and Means must go through the committee-of-the-whole before final consideration. Thus two weeks will be saved in routine action on most items.

"The new structure is the product of three years of experience under the present committee system, and should be a big improvement," said Commissioner Albert J. Zak, chairman of the rules committee which recommended approval of the new setup.

Each of the four new committees will have 11 or 12 members and meet on a specified day each week, enabling commissioners and other interested parties to arrange their schedules accordingly, he pointed out.

Present committees vary in size and meet irregularly at the call of their chairmen.

Members of the rules committee are, in addition to Zak (D-Dist. 8) of Hamtramck; John N. Sabo Jr. (D-Dist. 24) of Taylor, who represents part of Westland and all of Wayne, Van Buren Township, Belleville, Romulus and Sumpter Township; Conrad L. Mallett (D-Dist. 9) of Detroit, who is vice-chairman; Richard E. Manning (D-Dist. 19) of Redford; and Michael J. Reilly (D-Dist. 12) of Detroit.

Van Buren nixes proposed laws

Five proposed ordinances submitted to the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees last week failed to get any formal consideration by the board.

Members of the board were opposed to the proposed ordinances, contending they weren't needed.

The new ordinances were presented to the board at an earlier meeting by Darryl Robson, chief building inspector, who reported the ordinances would assist the township in its future development.

The ordinances were based on those from Brownstown Township.

They provided rules and regulations for swimming pool construction, licensing, operation and maintenance of drive-in theatres, creation of a fire prevention bureau and liquor enforcement department and hiring of a fire inspector.

Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer reported "we have a problem enforcing the ordinances we now have."

Trustee Joseph Hogan, who also is township fire commissioner, stated he saw little or no need for them. Trustee Dominick W. Blend said, "I think it is a wasted effort."

Michigan's attorney general recently handed down an opinion that unchartered townships such as Van Buren

Jaycees present March donations

The March of Dimes has received donations totaling $636.81 from the Romulus Jaycees and Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary.

Tom Von Glahn, external vice president of the Romulus Jaycees, and Mrs. Charlotte Wood of the Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary presented the donations to Earl Kemp, field representative for the March of Dimes on March 8.

The donated funds consisted of a two-month March of Dimes campaign. Canisters and posters were distributed throughout Romulus in the early part of January. The campaign netted the sum of $194, which included $54 from the Walters Bar & Bowling Alley.

The balance of the $636.81 donation was made up from the proceeds of the annual March of Dimes Dance, sponsored by the Romulus Jaycees, and from the sale of refreshments at the dance. Dance Chairman Lee Silvey presented the proceeds to Kemp.

The Jaycees Monday issued thanks and appreciation to all those who contributed to the fund drive and attended the annual March of Dimes Dance.

Referendum text OK'd on airport expansion

The official text of a referendum proposition to procure the official views of Van Buren Township voters on the proposed $100 million expansion proposal of the Willow Run Airport has been approved by the Van Buren Township Trustees.

The referendum vote will serve as a special airport advisory vote and will constitute an official record on the proposed airport expansion in the event of a court suit.

It will be voted on at the May 16 presidential primary election.

The official text is as follows:

"Do you favor expansion of the facilities and territorial limits of Willow Run Airport so as to convert it into a major regional cargo and general aviation airport?"

The voter is asked to answer either yes or no.

The township board has taken an official position against the airport expansion proposal. The township's against the expansion is being spearheaded by G. Elton Gollwitzer, township supervisor.

The township board will present to the township's electorate a proposal for the creation of a Building Authority to own and develop Belleville Lake and Edison Point Park, both currently owned by the Detroit Edison Co.

The township has submitted a request to the firm for the lake's transfer to the township, but a reply to this request has not yet been officially received by the township.

Water hydrant vandals warned in Sumpter

The problem of vandals turning on water hydrants in Sumpter Township brought a stern warning of arrest and prosecution from Richard Krajewski, chairman of the Sumpter Township Water and Sewer Commission.

Krajewski reported Monday water hydrants have been found turned on in various sections of the township. He reported some of the township's gravel roads have been washed away, citing an area on Clark Road near West Road.

He said seven hydrants were turned on Friday and another four on Thursday of last week. He said such activity, believed to be the work of township youths is costing the township money in wasted water supply.

Krajewski announced he plans to ask the township board to increase the present penalty of $100 or 90 days to $500 or 90 days.

He requested residents who see anyone turning on a water hydrant or loitering near one to call the township police department immediately.

Van Buren revises demolition ordinance

An ordinance regulating the demolition or removal of structures in Van Buren Township has been amended by the township board.

The amendment calls for additional information when applying for a demolition or removal permit. The board approved the amendment at its March 14 meeting.

rolls, location and if the permit is for the removal of a structure, the new location and the route to be taken.

In addition, the contractor's name and telephone number must be furnished along with proper evidence of utilities disconnections.

A bond of $1,000 is to be furnished and upon the completion of the demolition or removal and final inspection by the township, the bond will be cancelled.

Chamber report

New members announced

Jacob P. Dula, started with Wyandotte Bank at before graduating from high school, as a mail clerk.

Through the past 17 years that Dula has been employed by the Wyandotte Bank, he has advanced himself from mail clerk, bookkeeper, teller, management in training, to branch manager which he has been for the past six years.

Dula credits diplomacy, courage and most of all, hard work as the answer to his success.

Dula, living in Lincoln Park with his wife and seven-month-old daughter, is an active member of the St. Stanislaus' Parish in Wyandotte and the financial secretary of the parish's Titan Boosters Men's Club.

He is also the manager of the Dula Catering Hall in Wyandotte, a joint venture with his mother.

Future ambitions of Dula are to continue to help serve the people of Romulus though the bank and maybe look into a few of the Romulus programs that are now underway.

Manufacturers National Bank has two Romulus Branches at 36450 Goddard Rd., Leo M. Kalota, manager, and at 12750 Huron River Dr. with George Gesund as manager.

George Gesund, 28, has a firm conviction of "make it or bust" when he started fresh out of high school, at the age of 17, with Manufacturers National Bank as a proof operator in their 8 Mile and Lasher office.

Self determination and hard work must have carried Gesund through the years and promotions that followed, because 18 months after starting with the bank's Lasher office, he was transferred to their Redford office as a teller, staying there for the next year; then over to the Southfield office as a general teller; Greenfield office, general teller; opened with the trailer office in Farmington as general teller and when their permanent building was up in 1966 was transferred again to the Woodward office as administrative assistant; then Woodward Boulevard office as administrative assistant; the Vernor and Ingalls office as administrative assistant until 1968 at which time he was promoted to assistant manager.

The next three years were spent at the Grand River-Dundee office where he was moved up to Senior Assistant Manager in July, 1971, transferring a few months later to Romulus where the bank opened a trailer office on Huron River Drive.

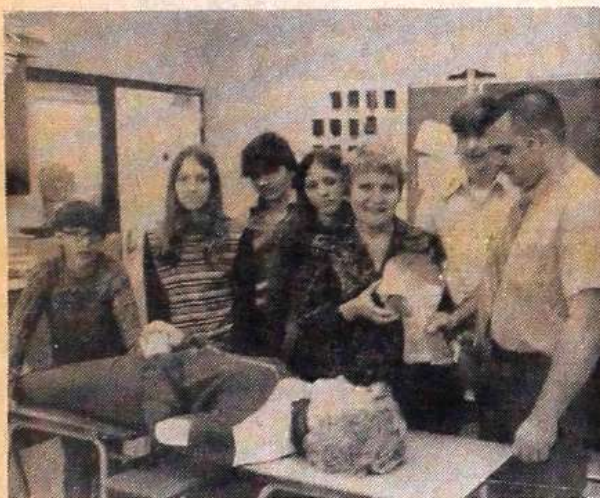

The trailer office has since disappeared and a permanent building stands in its place.

Gesund also attended the American Institute of Banks, and is presently attending Wayne State University at night. He is in his senior year, majoring in accounting.

The chamber has its hat off to this Southfield man for in between wife, two-year old son, school, and bank duties, he has plans on finding time to check into some of the Romulus clubs, organizations, and programs.

Security Bank & Trust located at 9950 Wayne Rd., Romulus with Kenneth Piotrowski, as manager.

Background on this bank and its manager appeared in the Romulus Roman, Feb. 23, 1972 under "Chamber Report."

ROAD DAMAGE — Dirt roads in most western Wayne County communities have been hit badly by winter weather and lack of constant attention by road maintenance crews. Road conditions in some areas of Romulus are almost a constant problem to residents, especially during this season of inclement weather it is reported. The road shown above is Beverly Road, east of Merriman Road. The city's recent 13-day employee strike has delayed road maintenance work.

Belleville swimmers area's best

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

When you have it, you have it -- and Belleville's Sam Vicchy had the swimmers this season. From his outstanding team, the All-Area drafted seven individuals and the Tiger freestyle relay.

It was the second consecutive season that Belleville nailed down the "lion's share" of honors and

Vicchy promises that "there will be no letdown, next year."

Among Belleville swimmers to repeat are Curt Cullin, in the 200-yard freestyle; Brad Susterka, in the 200-yard individual medley; Terry Mills, in the 50-yard freestyle; Barry Susterka, in diving; Dean Ackron, in the 100-yard butterfly; Jeff Fry, in the 100-yard freestyle; Jim Ackron, in the 100-yard breaststroke, and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Terry Mills, Jeff Liedel, Dean Ackron and Jeff Fry.

Other first stringers include Cherry Hill's 200-yard medley relay team of Tom O'Hagan, Tim Orians, Paul Sheridan and Greg Sawchuk; Livonia Franklin's Brad Kenny, in the 400-yard freestyle and Garden City East's Jeff Blanchard, in the 100-yard backstroke.

Cullin's 1:54.1 is the school record for the 200-yard freestyle. The four-year Tiger varsity tanker also posted a record-setting 4:05.1 for the 400-yard freestyle and has qualified for state competition the past two years. He captured the gold medal at the Western Wayne meet in the 400-yard freestyle and placed second to teammate Jeff Fry for the 200-yard freestyle.

As most of his senior teammates, Cullin will be heading for college where he will continue his swimming career.

Brad Susterka, tagged "the most underrated swimmer on the Tiger squad this year," has produced a 2:10.5 for the 200 yard individual medley and holds the school record for the 100-yard backstroke at 1:00.8. Also a four-year varsity swimmer, he qualified for the state finals.

"He's the most underrated swimmer we have on the team," said Vicchy. "He's so versatile and swims most events so well that we could shift him readily from one event to another. Of course that hurt him because he couldn't concentrate on one or two events.

"There are not too many swimmers like Brad, he's very unselfish," said Vicchy. Mills, the Tigers' co-captain, was clocked in 23.4 for the 50-yard freestyle event and he holds the record for that event. He also shares in the 400-yard freestyle relay event (3:25.8).

Mills qualified for state competition, won the Western Wayne in the 50-yard freestyle and also placed second in the 400-yard freestyle relay in the tough Suburban Eight Conference. (The league was expanded this year to include Dearborn High and Edsel Ford. Dearborn not only captured the league but the state Class A title as well.)

Dean Ackron is only a junior, and the Tiger coach feels "Dean will probably hold most of the school records before he finishes his prep career."

Registering a 56.3 for the 100-yard butterfly, Dean won the event at the Western Wayne and finished third in the conference. He qualified for the state in the butterfly and 100-yard freestyle relay, and is called "one of the hardest workers on the team."

Brother, Jim, is a senior who is the school's record-holder for the 100-yard breaststroke. He has a 1:05.5 for the event. Jim also holds the school record for the 200-yard individual medley at 2:07.2.

Ackron placed first in both the breaststroke and the individual medley at the Western Wayne and was first in the conference in the breaststroke. Jim finished with a bronze medal in the league for his efforts in the individual medley. He qualified for the state in both events and finished ninth in the individual medley and 11th in the breaststroke.

Ackron was the first swimmer in Belleville's history to even score points in two events on the state level. He is the team captain.

Fry's 50.0 for the 100-yard freestyle earned for him an all-area berth and that clocking is also Belleville High's record. He won the Western Wayne in the event, setting an invitational record. Jeff qualified for the state in the 100-yard freestyle and freestyle relay and finished second in the league in the 100-yard freestyle.

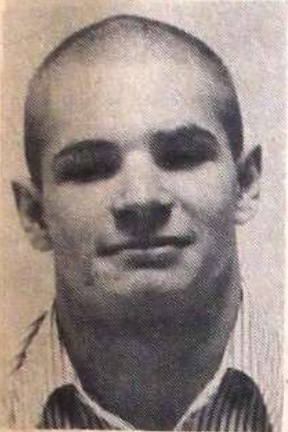

Belleville's record-setting freestyle relay team of Mills, Liedel, Dean Ackron and Fry holds the school record, placed second in the league and qualified for the state finals.

Barry Susterka, also a senior, has captured All-Area honors for an unprecedented four straight years. He is the first diver from Belleville ever to be given All-American consideration.

Barry placed third in the

All - Area grapplers fit 'to kill'

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

"My boy will kill your boy," said the coach after the dialogue with one of his colleagues came to an impasse.

"That may be so, but my boy belongs in there somewhere," replied the second coach.

A plot to "kill" someone? No, just two of the area high school coaches discussing the attributes of their wrestlers whose credentials came under close scrutiny yesterday by a panel of coaches whose job was to pick the 1972 All-Area high school wrestling team.

The panel accomplished its job.

But there were some questions that stayed dangling like the ones that made the participants famous.

"Why don't we have a tournament at the end of the season to decide who are the best in the area?" asked Tom Fritz, Belleville High's head mat strategist. "Then, there can be no argument who is the best."

The recommendation stayed as such for some of the coaches felt that after the state tournament the wrestlers - and the coaches - are too tired.

Much of the controversy this year, as in the past, arises from the fact that many prep grapplers will wrestle up a weight or two during the regular season, then drop to the weight desirable for the district and state tournaments.

Therefore, a wrestler may not have an outstanding over-all dual meet or tournament record because he has competed in the higher weight classes, but once in the desirable class he may be strong enough to reach the state finals.

Thus, do you select the All-Area candidate on his performances during the regular season when he may not have done so well, or on the later part of the season when he wrestled in what is believed his best weight class?

"When I'm asked to vote for an All-Area team, I go at it as if we were taking our best 12 kids against the best 12 say in Illinois," said Dean Shipman, Garden City West High School Head Coach. "It is the best boys we want."

And when there are two who are so equally matched that even a vote by the coaches doesn't decide the issue, then what? Do you pick, for example, the senior over the junior because the senior is rounding out his prep career?

"Whether an athlete is a sophomore or senior is immaterial," said Don Haney, Wayne Memorial's head coach. "If the sophomore has the credentials and has proven himself then he deserves the recognition."

Amidst all of the discussion an outsider soon realizes that these coaches know each other's teams and wrestlers well. No one was going to slip anything over on them.

And you have to give these men credit. With their sweat and work, they have helped produce some of the best high school talent in the state as well as nation. They have increased the sport's popularity in this area so that it is second to none.

A score of fans have been bugging this desk to learn when the All-Area wrestling team will be published, that's the way the sport has caught on in the area. A few years ago the fans wouldn't have cared a pennyworth.

And how would you like to pick a "Coach of the Year" from this flock?

Take Westland John Glenn's Bob Lusk. His team won the Northwest Suburban Conference championship for the umpteenth time, captured the district title and lost two dual meets all season long; his counterpart at Wayne Memorial Don Haney also lost but two meets and took the Mid-Wayne Conference title; Dean Shipman, Garden City West's energetic coach won a share of the Tri-River Conference title, while Tom Fritz, of Belleville, placed second in the tough Suburban 8 and also coached heavyweight Keith Simons to national recognition. Simons set a national pin streak record at 24 and placed second in the state. Then there's Jim Stallings, of Romulus, who had four members of his team reach the state finals, two of them finishing second in the state.

Go on, pick a Coach of the Year, if you dare.

Next Week:
All-area basketball
wrestling teams

FASTEST IN THE MEDLEY RELAY — All-Area picks for the best 200-yard medley relay team are Greg Sawchuk (from left), Paul Sheridan, Tom O'Hagan and Tim Orians from Cherry Hill High School. All four also won Tri-River Conference gold medals and the foursome's best time is 1:47.5. Coach Jerry Pawloski however will need to replace three of the four swimmers as only O'Hagan will be returning to the Spartan lineup next year.

Coach of the Year

Clifton makes GC East a winner without pool

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

A high school without a swimming pool has its disadvantages and advantages. And Garden City

East's head swim Coach Ron Clifton is trying to make the best of the situation working around the problems.

Clifton, who must utilize the Community Pool for practices, isn't complaining, however. He has managed to coach a Panther team to 15 victories out of 16 starts. The Panthers have also won their first Mid-Wayne Conference swim championship, their own invitational title and placed second in the tough Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational.

For his accomplishments, The Daily Eagle and the Associated Newspapers honor Clifton today as their swimming Coach of the Year. Clifton, 29, holds a degree in education from Michigan State University from where he was graduated in 1969. He also is working toward his masters in physical education at Eastern Michigan University.

A basketball and baseball letterman, ironically Clifton had little experience coaching swimming when he accepted the position at East High two years ago. He was assistant coach one year.

"Though he must utilize the community pool which is adjacent to the high school, Clifton feels he also reaps a lot of benefits from the situation. "Many of the youngsters are enrolled in AAU age group swimming at the pool and these youngsters eventually will come to us," said Clifton. However he must schedule meets far in advance so as not to conflict with the pool's activities. And sometimes practices must be cut short.

Clifton credits the success of the 1972 Panther season "to the kids."

Gerald Nault rolled a 212 for the highest game of the week and captured the men's single game honors and James Bailey carded a 541 for the men's high individual series.

In the ladies' department, Miss Mary Peterson claimed a 175 for high game honors and hit for a 494 series, good enough to capture that department as well.

In the team race, Russell Hasley's contingent claimed both categories with a single game mark of 503 and a series of 1329.

Team No. 6, captained by league secretary, Dan Gartner, moved into sole possession of first place.

state with a total of 441.5 points and he easily won his fourth straight Western Wayne title and placed second in the league.

Vicchy attributes the success of the swim team to two of his assistants who "have done outstanding jobs for us." They are Bill Snider, assistant swim coach, and Frank Musser, the diving coach.

"We wouldn't be where we are without these two men," said Vicchy. "Snider has always been in the shadows and without him we couldn't function. Musser has done a terrific job and both men make my job easier."

Garden City East, winner of 15 out of its 16 meets this year, contributes three swimmers to the All-Area lineup. All three are underclassmen, two are only sophomores.

Jeff Blanchard, a junior, has been defeated only once this season in the 100-yard breaststroke. He has the school, and Western Wayne records in the event, covering the distance in 59.9.

Jeff was also one of the score of area swimmers who qualified for the state finals, finishing in the top 20.

Glenn Turnbull and Mark Cooper are sophomores who will be heard from before they wind up their prep careers. Turnbull's 2:13.9 earned for him a berth in the 200-yard individual medley. He also has a 1:09.05 in the breaststroke and is a member of the Panthers' record-setting medley relay team.

Cooper has stroked a 4:20.0 for the 400-yard freestyle which enabled him to claim an

All-Area berth in the event. He also swam a leg on the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Cherry Hill stretched its dual meet winning streak to 28 straight this season and Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans captured their third consecutive Tri-River Conference championship.

Tom O'Hagan, Tim Orians, Paul Sheridan and Greg Sawchuk were drafted to handle the 200-yard medley relay chores. The foursome have been clocked in 1:47.5.

The four swimmers also bring impressive individual records to the mythical team. O'Hagan, a junior, captured gold medals in the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard backstroke at the Tri-River Conference meet. Sheridan, a member of last year's team in the breaststroke event, was the top 100-yard butterfly in the league while Orians and Sawchuk have set fast paces in the 100-yard breaststroke and 100 yard freestyle, respectively.

O'Hagan's 60.9 placed him second to Blanchard in the 100-yard backstroke and with both of them back next year, it'll be interesting to watch how their careers will develop.

Wayne Memorial and John Glenn have only one member each on this year's area squad. Both made it last year. Wayne's Fred Berean rounded out his prep swim career second to Belleville's Cullin in the 200-yard freestyle. Fred has posted a 1:57.4 as compared to the Belleville tanker's 1:54.2.

Glenn's Paul Barbu was a standout for the Rockets who competed in the tough Northwest Suburban Conference where Birmingham Groves has dominated the scene for nearly 10 years. Barbu's 1:07.4 gave him a berth in the 100-yard breaststroke trail teaming with Belleville's senior Jim Ackron who has been clocked in 1:05.5.

Garden City West, which has its share of problems this season, had a bright spot in the way of Ron Horn's performance. Horn, who'll return to Coach George Hanosh's lineup next year, was given a slot on the All-Area's 100-yard butterfly on the team in the 100-yard butterfly. He has carded a 1:00.1.

Three reasons why Livonia Franklin and Coach Larry Teahan had outstanding seasons were because of the performances of stalwarts Dane Westphall, Chris Fier and John Kortesoja.

Westphall, a senior, will be utilized in the 50-yard freestyle. His 23.8 is four tenths of a second off the pace set by Mills, while teammate Kortesoja has been selected for his acuity in the 100-yard freestyle, an event he has been clocked in at 53.0.

Fier, a senior, suffered defeat only once on the diving boards during the dual meet season. The Patriot diver holds the school record from the one-meter board at 224.

Coach

"Much of the credit must go to the kids and their attitude," said Clifton. "We have some kids who have moved up from the AAU age group bracket to the team and they helped out tremendously by setting an example for the others."

Clifton also feels "that communication is the key to a successful coach nowadays." "You have to be able to reach your kids, to communicate with them and there has to be a lot of teamwork," he said.

East's rivals that hoped to avenge some of their losses next year may not be able to for some time. The Panthers lose only three starters from this year's team.

Ron, who served with the Armed Forces for three years, is married to Janet. They have a two-year-old son, Ronald Jr. The Cliftons make their home in Westland.

Egg hunt planned

Plans are being made for the second annual Easter Egg Hunt by the Romulus Community Workers. This year the workers are asking the Romulus Recreation Department to assist them in sponsoring the event.

According to chairman Miss Winnie Hill and program chairman Miss Brenda Clark, the hunt will be held in a centrally located spot so that all Romulus children may take part in finding brightly colored eggs. Prizes and games are being planned.

Miss Clark said the time, date and location will be announced at a later date.

Belleville man named manager

A Belleville resident has been named general manager of Gold Key Inn, Detroit, by Samuel N. Gershenson, president of the Gold Key Inns motel chain.

He is Herbert W. Brown, 152 N. Rustic Lane, Belleville.

Immediately prior to his new post, Brown had been general manager of Capitol Park Motor Hotel (Lansing). He had also served as general manager of London Inn in Detroit, Holiday Motel in Royal Oak and the Park Plaza in Detroit.

The Detroit-based Gold Key Inns operate a chain of five motels. In addition to the Detroit facility, the other Inns are the Orlando (Fla.) Gold Key Fairlane Inn in Dearborn, Illinois Park Motel Inn in Livonia and the Autorama Gold Key Inn in Flint.

Church charter day set

Next Sunday, Palm Sunday, Lutheran Church of the Apostles in Belleville will take the next step in the direction of becoming a formally organized congregation of the Lutheran Church in America.

On that day the Charter Membership Roll will be opened. Those who desire to be charter members of this new congregation will step forward and sign the charter, which will become part of the archives of the new church.

After the arrival of Pastor Koch in August to begin work toward developing the Lutheran congregation, a planning committee was selected that set the date for the first service of worship in the VFW Memorial Hall on Bemis Road on Sunday, Nov. 7, 1971.

Since that time the congregation has grown to the point where it is expected that by May 14 at least 70 to 75 adults will become charter members, including the present confirmation class of 11 members.

May 14 has been set as organization day. Dr. Frank P. Madsen, president of the Michigan Synod of the LCA, will be the guest preacher and will pronounce the formation of this new congregation.

Worship services are conducted each Sunday at 9:30 with Sunday Church School following at 10:45 a.m.

SCHOOL CARNIVAL CLOWNS — Haggerty Elementary School in Belleville held its annual PTO carnival last Friday. Two students arrived at the carnival dressed as clowns. They are (from left) Jimmy Laine, 9, and Sandy Washburn.

Included in the events held at the carnival were games for children of all ages, a country store for adults and a snack bar.

AT THE DUCK POND — Brian McClinton, 7, of Belleville, was too busy at the duck pond, one of the many games at the Haggerty Elementary School's PTO carnival, to notice his picture being taken by photographer Dean Lyons. The carnival was held last Friday at the school and was well attended by children and parents.

Romulus city library continues to grow

The Romulus Public Library is showing continuous growth. Miss Diana Covert, librarian, has reported to Romulus City Council.

A year-end count of the collection of books showed 22,000 volumes plus 35 additional periodicals and newspapers added to the collection as well as continual additions to the pamphlet file, her quarterly report disclosed.

Circulation has been high, except for the usual slow-down in December and January for the holidays. In February, the library set a circulation record of 6,300 books.

The summer reading club proved successful. Miss Covert reported. Of 113 children registered, 80 actually took part in the club, reading a total of 1,164 books. Thirty-three first place awards were given, while 15 second and nine third place awards also were given. Anthony Clark of Romulus, a third grader, read 60 books during the summer, she reported.

A total of 458 children attended the film showings in August and 158 came to the pre-school story hour.

The fall activities began with a Teachers' Open House to acquaint the teachers with the new facility and services the library provide to the schools.

"Although the attendance was not as great as we had hoped, there were faculty members from most schools present and our information was taken back to the schools, resulting in an increase in teacher loans for classroom use and class visits," the Covert said.

A total of 464 children have toured the library, selected books and listened to stories when they came with their class. There also have been visits by some Brownie and Cub Scout Troops.

During the library's dedication and open house week, it featured displays of Romulus history, the library's audio-visual equipment and an exhibit from the Department for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

In October, the library began a new pre-school story hour session on Tuesday mornings. A total of 358 attended the 10-week session. Also in October, the library hosted an open house for senior citizens in Romulus, to give them the opportunity to form a group and to reintroduce them to the library, Miss Covert reported.

A library helpers club was organized for children in grades four through six. Called the Bibles, they help by shelving their own books, straightening books on the shelves. They learn how to use the library as well as how to help the staff.

Their new project is a library newspaper, "The Biblion News," which will contain book reviews, original writing and library happenings. The first issue, scheduled to be out soon, will be distributed to the schools as well as being available at the library.

U.S. appeals court upholds local woman's conviction

United States Attorney Ralph B. Guy Jr. has announced the U.S. Court of Appeals has confirmed the conviction of Mrs. Mary McKee, who operated a bookkeeping and tax return preparation service at 4950 Textile Rd., Ypsilanti.

Mrs. McKee, 54, a Belleville mother of three, was convicted in January, 1970 on 15 counts of aiding and assisting in the preparation of false federal income tax returns of others. Among her clients were many taxpayers in the Belleville-Ypsilanti area.

U.S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton sentenced Mrs. McKee in April, 1970 to serve three years in the custody of the U.S. Attorney General. The first three months of her sentence were to be served undergoing psychiatric testing.

In June, 1971, a motion by Mrs. McKee for a new trial was denied by Judge Thornton after a hearing on the matter.

During the trial it was shown that Mrs. McKee prepared false income tax returns by omitting income, claiming fictitious expenses, claiming non-existent dependents and claiming transactions on returns which in fact had never taken place.

The government contended at the time of her conviction it had recovered in excess of $700,000 in additional taxes, interest and penalties as a result of examining income tax returns prepared by Mrs. McKee for her clients.

Department heads must attend meetings

The Romulus City Council has approved the issuance of a directive to all city department heads requesting them to appear at council meetings when items on the agenda are related to their respective departments.

During several past council sessions some department heads were not present in the council chambers when items involving the operations of their departments were on the agenda and discussed by council members.

Councilman Brooker R. Edwards made the motion requesting that such a directive be forwarded to department heads. He was supported by Councilman Ellis T. Pennington.

The motion was adopted unanimously.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

The white haired maestro Leopold Stokowski, at an age well past three score years and ten, continued an inspirationally active life. By personal example, he shamed many younger people when he said, "I would rather talk about the future, the past is something we can no longer do anything about."

He put his words in action. In approaching age 80, he grouped both young and old in the American Symphony. One third of the musicians were talented youth; the other two thirds were more experienced, more mature. Dedicated to his conviction that America is a land of opportunity and that it must remain so, he exemplified a lesson many of us should heed. The young learn from the old and the old gain from the vitality and enthusiasm of the young. In recent years, in too many areas of employment, it is a shame that this two fold concept of opportunity seems to have been side-tracked...

May bride-elect is honored at shower

LYNN ORR, daughter of the Lloyd Orrs of Harmony Lane, has an altar date in May with Gary Vaughn. Last Saturday evening, she was the honored guest at a bridal shower given by Mrs. Mildred Vaughn and daughter, Brenda, of Belleville; Mrs. Jereatha Davie of Southgate; Mrs. Peggy Orr of Wayne; and Mrs. Merline Orr and Mrs. Nancy Orr of Lincoln Park.

Tagging the event "miscellaneous", the group reserved the Southgate Recreation Center for the party. Some 25 friends and relatives arrived from Millington, Anchorville, Rochester, Dearborn, Woodhaven, Southgate, Wayne, Lincoln Park, and Belleville for the evening.

Several games with a bridal theme were played after which Lynn and her fiancé unwrapped their many household gifts. Brenda Vaughn, who's to be a bridesmaid, helped with the ribbons and wrappings. For the occasion, the couple was placed at a pretty net-covered table garlanded with flowers behind which were pink entwined hearts with Lynn and Gary, 5-13-72, inscribed.

Concluding the festivities was a buffet lunch of shrimp salad, hot rolls, cake, gelatine dessert, punch, tea, and coffee.

Besides being busy with last minute details for the wedding, Lynn is attending freshman classes at Eastern Michigan University. She and Gary have reserved the First Baptist Church in Wayne for their May 13 nuptials.

Former librarian has new address

MISS HELENA McCULLOUGH, who retired from her duties as head librarian at the Belleville Library in December, has taken up residence in Lakewood, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland.

Taking leave on St. Patrick's Day, she departed from her apartment on Liberty Street for new quarters at the Marine Towers West on the shores of Lake Erie.

Prior to leaving she was entertained by a number of close friends - all acquaintances made during her nine-year stay in Belleville. We wish her luck, contentment and many blessings.

Parents welcomed home from Spain

ROGER ALLYN and his wife, Aileen, decided to use a St. Patrick's Day theme for the dinner party they hosted Friday in honor of the return of Roger's parents, the Franklin Allyns, from Europe.

The senior Allyns, who winter in Florida, decided on a trip to Spain before returning to their home in Detroit. After meeting their plane at Metro Airport, the family returned to Roger and Aileen's for Mr. Allyn's favorite dish - corn beef and cabbage.

Also adding to the co-op dinner were Tom and Bethann Swan of Dearborn Heights; Rodney and Carol Allyn and sons, Jeff and Brad, from Adrian; and Larry and Norma McClure, daughter Wendy, and infant son, Mark, all from Redford.

Son surprises Szumas with visit

AL AND MARGERITE SZUMA had a pleasant surprise awaiting them when they arrived home from St. Anthony's smorgasbord dinner Sunday. Their son, Al, had driven in unexpectedly from Lowery Air Force Base in Colorado for a 10-day leave.

Al, who's an Airman First Class, has been in service since last August. He will return to his duties next Sunday.

Haddells welcome daughter

Their second child and second daughter was born March 5 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Haddell, Jr., of 1515 Marie, Westland.

The baby girl, named Julia Pearl, weighed 7 lbs., 9 oz., at birth at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

The Haddells are also the parents of Holly Ann, 2.

Grandparents of the girls are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Haddell of Westland, and Mr. and Mrs. Noel Bergeron of Romulus.

Try entertaining in laundry room

Entertaining friends in the laundry room may sound a little off-beat, but not when washer and dryer are framed into cabinets, the top becoming a serving table for food and drinks.

In a basement room, a double-duty table built around a post can be square or round, depending on the area, and used for laundry sorting or supper.

In smaller rooms, a table that folds down from the wall would serve as well. Brightening up a laundry room with solid wood paneling and adding a desk also provides a home office.

MISS SCOTT

Scott-Bengle wedding set for April 15

Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Mooney of 7490 Merriman Road, Romulus, announce the engagement of her daughter, Kathleen Gail Scott, to James J. Bengle, Jr., son of the senior James J. Bengles of 13957 Kentfield, North-West Detroit.

Miss Scott, who is currently in her senior year at Romulus High School, is employed at National Car Rental at Metro Airport.

Her fiancé is employed at Detroit Diesel.

Fast action is vital

When a child swallows something

What is the first thing a mother should do when her child swallows something that may be poisonous?

"Keep the remains of the contents of the bottle or box in order to identify the poison and estimate the dosage - as you call your doctor immediately," advises poison control authority Dr. Joseph Greensher.

Dr. Greensher, who was recently interviewed by the Health Insurance Institute, is associate director of the Poison Control Center at Nassau County Medical Center in New York.

Too often, parents do not react fast enough when an emergency occurs, according to the doctor, simply because they get too panicky. They may omit vital details which could later quickly identify the item swallowed and the dosage, and thus delay a doctor's course of action.

Where to Go for Help

According to Dr. Greensher and Dr. Howard C. Mofenson, who collaborated on a recent scientific article on poisons, children under five ingest an estimated 3,000,000 inedible items every year that "may or may not produce symptoms."

Where can a parent go for help? First, try to reach your doctor. Dr. Greensher advises. If that fails, call your local Poison Control Center, or your community hospital, or the police. If you have small children it is a good idea generally to keep the phone numbers of these facilities by the telephone.

A good precautionary move, according to Dr. Greensher, is to keep a home an ounce bottle of syrup of ipecac - to induce vomiting, if that is what the doctor orders. Another useful item to keep on the first-aid shelf is activated charcoal for dilution.

Here are measures Dr. Greensher suggests parents take to prevent accidental poisoning.

When storing potentially dangerous items - keep them high out of a child's reach and also under lock and key. Children often climb on a chair or box to get at a wall cabinet.

Never put dangerous products in containers used for eating or drinking.

Never place pills or medication in a refrigerator within easy reach of a child. He may assume that anything there is edible. If medicine must be kept cool, it should be in a locked-tight "child-proof" container.

Never leave pills in a drawer or a purse - where the child can come across them.

Tell Grandma, Too

"Also," points out Dr. Greensher, "pass these hints on to grandma when the kids go visiting - and exploring in other people's kitchens or cupboards."

Bear in mind that the time of the greatest danger is around noon, late afternoon and early evening - when a child is hungry - and is likely to be attracted to anything that looks like food.

Night time can be just as dangerous, so check toys and playthings that a child might take to bed with him. Such items as button eyes on stuffed animals or buttons on dolls' clothes should be properly sewn so that they don't find their way to a child's mouth.

Weight Watcher lecturer featured at Home Arts Club

The March 13 Home Arts Club meeting was conducted by Lee Smith at North Junior High School. Despite the inclement weather, 17 members answered roll call and enjoyed the program which followed.

Program chairman Mildred Baker announced a game night for April 10 with the gymnasium being reserved for those caring to take part in volleyball or basketball. Others may play cards or table games in the home economics room.

Election of officers will also be held and members of the nominating committee are Mary Anne Hudge, chairman; Jan Sierota, and Betty Gott.

Following adjournment Sharon Matthews introduced Vi Mead, lecturer for Weight Watchers, who presented an interesting profile on the program. A Weight Watcher herself, she is proud to boast of the 116 pounds which she shed in one year's time.

She also brought along special diet foods including three dips for fresh vegetables and a peach-bread pudding, all very low in calories. Several other recipes were also copied down for low-cal planning.

In keeping with the theme of the evening Jan Sierota and her refreshment committee served pineapple, berry and chocolate chiffon Weight Watcher pies at a table centered with a St. Patrick's Day shamrock arrangement and colorful napkins. Also serving were Avis White and Shar Tator with Wilma Tator, Virginia Turney and Theora Wilkie also assisting with the dessert.

Start tradition in Easter dining

If Easter and ham are an inviolate tradition in your home, but you like variety, try Easter Ham Delight, a recipe that has the old-fashioned goodness of golden glazed baked ham, but a new flavor that's fresh as spring.

A single center cut slice of smoked ham one inch thick will serve a dinner party of six elegantly when baked with a flavorful topping of seasoned bread stuffing, shredded Swiss cheese, crushed pineapple, dry mustard and sweet creamery butter. Garnish this ham creation festively with red pimiento flowers and green water cress.

Serve Easter Ham Delight with a new and different molded vegetable salad. A frosty crown in holiday shades of pastel green and Easter yellow that could very well be a fluffy snow drift sheltering the first fragrant blooms of spring. Snowy Cheese Salad is a combination of chopped celery, sliced green onions and diced green pepper in lemon flavored gelatin sparked with mustard. A velvety blend of creamy cheese, whipped cream, and dairy sour cream is folded into the partially set gelatin which is then chilled until firm. Unmold onto greens and garnish with sliced green onions and cherry tomatoes. The perfect piquant accompaniment for an Easter ham.

This year serve Easter Ham Delight and Snowy Cheese Salad on your spring holiday dinner table and start your own family tradition.

Snowy Cheese Salad

- 1 package (3oz.) lemon flavor gelatin
- 1 1/4 cups boiling water
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 6 drops yellow food color
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/4 cup finely sliced green onion
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 1 1/4 cups cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream
- Sliced green onions
- Cherry tomatoes

In a bowl pour boiling water over gelatin; stir until dissolved. Stir in mustard, paprika, seasoned salt and food color. Chill until partially set. Fold in celery, onion and green pepper. Combine cottage cheese, whipped cream and sour cream. Fold into gelatin mixture. Turn into 4 1/2-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold onto greens; garnish with sliced green onions and cherry tomatoes. Makes 6-8 servings.

Easter Ham Delight

- 1 center-cut smoked ham slice, 1-inch thick
- Whole cloves
- 1 cup herb seasoned bread stuffing
- 1 cup (4oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
- 1/2 cup crushed pineapple in unsweetened juice, drained
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted

Diagonally slash fat edges of ham at 1-inch intervals to prevent curling; stud with cloves. Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in preheated 325 degree oven, 30 minutes. Meanwhile in a bowl toss together stuffing, cheese, pineapple and mustard. Add butter and toss lightly. Spoon mixture on ham and bake an additional 30 minutes. Makes 6-8 servings.

Be style-wise: 'personalize'

Imaginative trim can personalize any fashion — whether homesewn or store-bought, says Ms. Kathleen Bufton, Extension Home Economist in Wayne County.

For example, picture: multi-colored beads mounted on tape for blouses and vests; a new decorator zipper that looks good; zipper pulls made of a bracelet charm or a huge round earring; transfer designs — big and simple — that can be filled with applique, ribbon, rickrack or braid.

Fake furs — easy care and fun to wear — put "luxury" in the affordable range. Ms. Bufton points out. If you decide to make your own fur design, most fabric departments have a wide selection waiting — thick, thin, flat and curly. Some are backed with prints and stripes that can be used inside out.

Add your own ideas to the pattern designs. A belt or vest of fur could turn a dress from simple to striking. Skirts and pants in thin, flat furs make lush party outfits. And, outfit your man with a shaggy vest, hat or tie.

DID YOU KNOW...

Sharp-edged metal decorations on knit garments can cause holes, snags and runs, especially when these garments are tumbled during cleaning or laundering. Ms. Bufton suggests that you either remove these trim items before cleaning, or wrap them in aluminum foil while still on the garment.

A new type of nylon dissipates static more quickly to eliminate most of the creep, cling and tingle of the old nylon fabrics. Other good features of these "anti-static" are increased moisture absorption and soil resistance, and brighter colors. They are widely used in women's intimate apparel, men's socks and — more recently — outerwear.

Some of the most popular fashion trends in this country are "borrowed finery," says Ms. Bufton. For example, macrame (the knotting rage) was not recently discovered by American artisans. In the 13th century, Arab weavers called it "migramah" which means ornamental braid. In 1698, Queen Mary of England introduced it into palace circles. The craft might have disappeared if not for seamen who needed diversion on long voyages. The Incas and American Indians developed their own versions of macrame.

Tie-dyeing is an ancient technique from Asia. Ms. Bufton explains. The art is highly sophisticated in India, which exports quantities of tie-dyed silk. And, in a difficult variation of tie-dyeing, Philippine craftsmen dye warp threads before weaving and mount these unevenly on a loom. This gives a moire or wet look effect.

The Chinese probably didn't use pop art ice cream cones or lightning bolts in their applique designs. Nevertheless, the art originated there several hundred years ago. It was a short cut for the more expensive, time-consuming methods of dyeing and embroidery. In the U.S. today, applique is the way to spark a dull dress, T-shirt or blue jeans.

Liberator fills gap, informs, uses talents of BHS students

By MARK RIGGS

An understanding printer, many special features and unusual headlines characterize Belleville's most recent journalistic effort.

The "Liberator," sold at Belleville High School, was conceived a little over a year ago. In that short span of time, it has filled a gap left by the school paper.

With its imaginative advertising and reporting, original format and humorous editorials, it now helps to fill a need for fresh viewpoints.

This newspaper is designed to present a different point of view than other local papers, thus giving students (as well as teachers, administrators, and parents) a more rounded view of school affairs.

While many were reluctant to condone an "underground" type publication, the steadfastness of the writers' principles brought the reward of official freedom to distribute within the school. Prior to that time, the staff was going against a "distribution on school grounds" rule.

Of course, an advance copy must now be submitted to the principal for approval, but that is included in the new rule that was made for The Liberator.

On the lighter side, this periodical includes many witty barbs. Satire is directed where room for improvement is seen, whether in student life or cafeteria management.

Through careful art work by many talented individuals, the paper is made visually interesting. The advertising, which utilizes much of our artists' talents, also pays for printing costs, along with the price charged for the paper. It, in turn, helps local merchants display their wares effectively.

The Liberator has been self-supporting from the start and has never used school funds to operate. This true "business management" has taught valuable lessons for those who have worked on it. The tone is one of active interest in community affairs. Topics such as voter registration and the Willow Run Airport expansion were discussed in past issues.

Student involvement is stressed. Apathy is frequently the subject of heated articles that criticize students' lack of concern for what goes on about the. This concern is especially imperative when one considers that this year's junior is next year's voter.

The Liberator is always looking for new ideas. This community contains a wealth of resources that could be tapped by interested students. Just let them know about them. The staff welcomes letters, news items, editorials or articles. Every attempt will be made to print them in their entirety. Any items of interest

Romulus family won't let city take dogs that easily!

A complaint filed by Mr. and Mrs. John B. Dempsey of 14005 Huron River Dr., Romulus, regarding the enforcement of the city's dog ordinance has been referred to the Romulus Zoning Board of Appeals by the city council.

The Dempseys are the owners of a family of five licensed cocker spaniels ranging in age from 2 to 13 years. The dogs are housed and cared for on the 10-acre Dempsey homestead on Huron River Drive.

They reported to council on March 7 that the city's dog warden told them they did not meet the requirements of the city's dog ordinance, which requires owners of more than two dogs to have a kennel license.

The ordinance also requires kennel operators to have at least five acres of land for the operation of their kennels, which have to be licensed by the city council.

Dempsey reported he and his wife were not in the business of buying and selling dogs and to convert their present "adequate" dog facilities would require an additional expense of $300 to $400. He added that plans to move elsewhere are being considered.

Sumpter seeking policemen

Sumpter Township is seeking experienced police officers, Virgil W. Humphreys, police commissioner, announced Monday.

Applications for the position are now available at the township clerk's office, 23488 Sumpter Rd.

The application must be filed with Township Clerk Clarence J. Hoffman Jr.

The city zoning ordinance, which requires five acres of land for the keeping of livestock, does not specifically mention dogs, according to Dempsey.

Councilman James C. Stewart stated he thought the Dempseys had been misinformed on procedures and that what they were seeking was a variance to the zoning ordinance.

City Clerk Leonard Folmar reported he placed the matter on the council's agenda on the belief that the council could assist the Dempseys.

The council members agreed the matter should be referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

At the request of Councilman Ellis T. Pennington, the Council agreed to waive any penalty relative to violation of the dog ordinance for a period of 60 days, pending a decision by the zoning board.

The Girl Scouts from Belleville's Quirk Elementary School celebrated International Friendship Day of Girl Scout Week with a get-together of all four troops in the school.

A flag ceremony opened last Thursday's event with the scouts renewing their scout promise and laws. Each troop then performed a dance or game song of a different country, then all troops sang together.

The troops that were present were Junior Troop 487 and its leaders, Mrs. Doris Bullard and Mrs. Marcie Rice, Junior Troop 587 with its leaders, Mrs. Joan Monforton and Mrs. Pat LaMothe, Brownie Troop 354 and leaders Mrs. Stella Harding and Mrs. Florence Cornell and Brownie Troop 370, whose leaders are Mrs. Linda Marcum and Mrs. Kay Mida.

BEDROOM HARBORS BEAUTY BAR — This dressing table with plumbed-in sink installed on master bedroom wall adjoining bath utilizes existing plumbing. Set apart by louvered wood door divider, beauty nook has three-way mirror and spacious storage, and adds luxurious convenience for an active couple. Matching louvered wood shutters at window further define area.

Master bath stretched without leveling walls

Two baths have become standard in recent years for serving two generations in the same household — separating the splashes and giving the master bedroom the privacy and convenience of its own bath accommodations.

While no longer strictly a luxury, the master bath is most often conceived as a compact utility, second to the larger family bath.

Together in marriage includes the warmth of shared experiences, but when he looks into the bathroom mirror, razor poised, and sees her face, it's a definite case of overcrowding.

In one home recently visited, the family found a way to stretch a confining master bath without leveling any walls. By building a dressing table on a bedroom wall adjoining the bath, existing plumbing was used to install a plumbed-in sink.

The result: a complete beauty bar for the lady of the house and serene, uninterrupted shaving for her mate.

Tucked into a corner, the beauty nook is set apart by a louvered wood door divider at its open end. The divider also supports a frame for a panel of diffused lighting overhead.

Filigree drawer pulls make simple cabinetry elegant, and the adjustable three-way mirror is a luxury appreciated daily. Storage of beauty and grooming aids is well-planned, with drawers for small cosmetic items and shelves below for bulky curlers, hairsetter and dryer. The bathroom medicine cabinet then becomes male territory with plenty of room for his necessities.

Dressing table and divider may be painted to complement bedroom decor, and matching louvered wood shutters extend a tailored look to a nearby window. Staining wood to match furnishings and using appropriate moldings and decorative catches offer another attractive possibility.

This addition eases out a hectic morning schedule when both marrieds work, and is equally convenient when preparing for an evening out or entertaining guests at home.

IMPROVE YOUR HOME

By following several tips

Fuel bills can be reduced

You can cut your heating and cooling bills by being a fuel watcher. As conservationists and fuel experts battle the problems of tapping new resources, homeowners might learn how to use their fuel more efficiently and economically.

And the industry is providing the information. Armed with statistics on the problem, Barbara Bland, coordinator of women's programs for the American Petroleum Institute, an organization of some 8,000 oil companies, is trying to convince women it is worth the effort. She plans to spread her message that while energy requirements are increasing the supply of oil and gas someday may not meet the demand.

"But most women say, 'well if we don't have oil, we can use electricity,' but actually 40 per cent of the energy that provides electricity comes from oil and natural gas."

To get maximum fuel use during the period the industry describes as an energy gap, here are some pointers:

—Use heavy appliances—rug shampooers, sanders and so on—after six o'clock. The peak fuel demand is between the hours of 8 to 6 when industries, schools, stores, factories and offices are busy.

—Never let a faucet drip. One drip a second wastes 700 gallons of water a year, and if it is hot water that is dripping, it will have wasted lots of energy.

—Thermostats should be kept at about 70 degrees. Every degree over 70 increases the cost of its use by 3 per cent. Setting the thermostat down five degrees at night will save energy and money. If a room in the house is unused, it should be closed off.

When you leave the house for a weekend, lower the thermostat about five degrees. If you plan to be away for a longer period the thermostat might be put at 55 degrees.

If a thermostat is on a cold wall or in a drafty place it will increase your fuel bill, and it shouldn't be on a wall that might be exposed to a window that is used for airing a room. An old thermostat might be monitoring heating requirements irregularly.

—Air conditioners should be adequate but not too large for your needs.

All appliances use energy. Bigger washing loads should be put in the machine and, if possible, it should be used after six. Because it is there, some women get in the habit of keeping the washing machine running constantly with just a few things in it. Limit the use of your dish washer. Fill it to capacity.

Television requires a big power thrust so don't turn it off and on. It also is better to leave your vacuum cleaner running while you move a chair than to turn it off and on every few minutes. Remove everything from the refrigerator you need for a meal so you do not need to open and close the doors constantly. Older refrigerators use up quite a bit of energy.

—Renew old weather stripping on doors. Keep refrigerators defrosted—if frost is allowed to build the machine will have to work harder.

—Make sure fireplace dampers are closed in winter as heat rises and escapes.

—Keep furniture, drapes and objects away from radiators where they might trap heat or cool the air. If walls are cold place a sheet of aluminum or aluminum foil between wall and radiator to reflect heat into the room.

—Furnaces should be cleaned regularly. Dirty filters on warm air systems can cause poor distribution of heat. The same is true of even a thin layer of dust on radiators or baseboards.

While the industry feels that what one does in the home to save fuel might be only a minor solution to the bigger problem of oil shortage, Miss Bland observes, it is a step in the right direction as the industry and environmentalists try to come to terms.

On home improvements

Here's the answer

Q.—A couple of years ago, you told someone how to get a pickled pine finish. I clipped it out, but have since lost it. I now want to use that kind of finish. Could you repeat the instructions, please?

A.—There are several ways to achieve a pickled pine finish. Here is one of them. Use a commercial bleach to lighten the wood. After following the manufacturer's instructions on what to use to wipe off any residue, give the wood a coat of paste white paint tinted very slightly with raw umber and flat black.

Wipe it off lightly. When dry, the surface should be given two coats of clear shellac, diluted 50 per cent with denatured alcohol. Finish with a paste wax.

A.—Naturally, there is no way I can tell from this vantage point whether it is real ebony. But you sure got a wrong steer about the weight of ebony. It is one of the heaviest woods. Are you sure the information you received didn't refer to balsa, a very light wood much used in hobby work?

Q.—We saw some furniture in a department store that had a finish which the salesman called limed oak. He said the final coat was lacquer, but he wasn't sure exactly how the effect was achieved. Since we have an unfinished oak table, I wonder if you could tell us how to get the limed oak finish?

A.—The wood must be bleached before anything else is done—assuming that the finish is reasonably smooth. If

Fashion show planned

The Wayne State University Law Wives will join with the University of Detroit Law Wives to present their annual fashion show, "Anything Goes", at the Warren Chateau (6015 Ten Mile, 1/2 block east of Mound) at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 12.

Proceeds from the show will be used to provide scholarships at Wayne State and U. of D. law schools.

Tickets are available from any member of the Law Wives Clubs or at the door.

Electric heat's future bright

The picture continues to be bright for electric heat, according to an industry source which reports a five percent increase in new installations and conversions during 1971.

This brings the number of residences using electric heat to almost five million. The ratio of single-family homes to apartments is about two-and-one-half to one. Projections for 1980 total 11,300,000.

On the non-residential scene electric heat is also showing a steady growth. According to latest statistics, 27 per cent of non-residential structures built in 1970 were heated electrically. Three out of four buildings were also equipped with electric air conditioning.

Electric heat's significant inroads into various building markets are due to its across-the-board benefits for builders, owners and tenants. It offers even heat, cleanliness (there's no fuel oxidation to cause soot or dust), noiselessness, and individual room temperature controls. It eliminates the need for furnace rooms, storage tanks, ductwork and radiators. Cost of installation is relatively low, and maintenance is minimal.

As a bonus attraction, buildings with electric heat tend to be better constructed because many utilities specify high performance structural requirements for them.

A primary specification is for full thermal insulation in ceilings, walls and floors. This is intended to assure the most efficient operation of the system, to cut heat loss and to keep fuel costs low. As part of the specification, the utilities also urge use of windows with superior insulating qualities.

Tomorrow's forecast
from the Carroll Righter Institute

General tendencies: By being diplomatic and very considerate of members of your family you will be able to avoid the tempestuous, emotional time that could otherwise be your lot today and tonight. Your judgment is not too good so make a point to double-check whatever arises, then you can sidestep some otherwise difficult pathways.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) See what should be done to make your home more comfortably charming as well as add to the harmony existing there now. You have to use a new method if you want to start an uptrend in some important outlet. Get busy early.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Some discussion is necessary with associates if you want to get those new methods operating efficiently, become more successful. Much care in driving is necessary, as well as more courtesy toward others now. Think.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) If you talk over some monetary matters of importance with a financial wizard or banker, you can handle them with true efficiency. You have taken on some heavy responsibilities that now seem to be too much for you, but this is not so. Keep busy and all is okay.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Good friends are in a most emotional mood, so handle them with real care now. Show you are most thoughtful of them. Take those health treatments that are really good and time tested.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to get much work done before you can go out for amusements, so get an early start on them. Confiding in others could result in the loss of good ideas and much cash. Try to be as secretive as possible today and tonight.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to approach that bigwig who can help you gain your aims in a gingerly manner and then you get the right results. Avoid group affairs that are not apt to go very well now. Do some reading, relaxing.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Follow the ideas of higher-ups more if you want to get your business duties handled well and with less trouble, work. Obey every regulation that applies to you solely. Don't argue so much.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) New information has cropped up that can be somewhat alarming to you, but by sleeping over it, you find it provides opportunities to advance. Don't permit a new contact to lead you pell-mell into something you are not sure of.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get obligations ahead of you handled with speed so you free more time for hobbies and other activities you like. Mate is irritable, so hold your temper and give a chance to relax. Show helpfulness, to.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being more cooperative with an associate gives you an opportunity to understand ideas better and then you can work together happily. You have to be exact where some public duties are concerned. Think logically.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Procrastinating will never get that work ahead of you done, so roll up your sleeves and get it out of the way now. Reap the benefits soon. Rest tonight instead of gadding about and wasting energy foolishly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Taking chances with new types of pleasure you know nothing about could lead to something dangerous, so stick to the tried and true. Get more work done on that hobby that pleases you. Stay within your budget. If your child is born today he or she will be one of those highly emotional young people, which is fine, provided this quality is channeled in the right directions, otherwise there can be little success in this chart, so give the right ethical training, diet and education necessary early, and slant toward business or highly artistic lines for best results. Eradicate martyr complex while young through kindness and understanding.

Home rule vote set Aug. 8

County voters will have the opportunity to vote on a county home rule question in the Aug. 8 general primary election. The Wayne County Board of Commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution placing the question on the August ballot, thus giving the voters their second chance in four years to voice their opinions on the item.

In 1968 a county home rule proposal was vetoed, 363,299 to 316,459.

The commissioners failed to act on a proposal which would have put a capital improvement millage proposal on the May 17 presidential primary ballot. The proposed resolution was passed for the day, giving the board another opportunity to bring it up and act on it before the March 28 deadline.

The capital improvement millage proposal would allocate money for the county jail and youth facilities.

The commissioners have proposed three alternatives and will choose between them if they decide to put it on the May 16 ballot.

One would call for one mill for the next four years, amounting to $49,879,200, while another would be for 3/4 of a mill for four years totaling $37,409,400. The third alternative would request 3/4 of a mill for the next five years, amounting to $46,761,750.

A variety of reasons was voiced by the commissioners on why or why not the proposal should be voted on during the May 16 primary. While several commissioners were worried about how the millage proposal would fare in the midst of a 10-mill school millage proposal facing Detroit voters, several others were concerned about whether or not the 1-mill proposal would hurt the school millage question.

Approval of the home rule proposition by a majority of the voters would establish a charter commission which would draw up a proposed county charter within the limitations of the state county home rule act. The voters would then decide whether or not to adopt the charter.

The major new feature of charter county government under the present state act would be an elected county executive, the county equivalent of a charter city's mayor. A county manager, an office which does not exist at present, could also be established under the charter.

4-H Achievement Day planned in Belleville

The Wayne County 4-H Achievement Day is set for Saturday, April 15, at the Wayne County 4-H Fairgrounds, located on Quirk Road in Belleville.

Projects may be entered and set up between 9 a.m. and noon. Judging will begin at 12:30 p.m.

All food entries must include 4-H'ers name, age and exhibit number. Also, no food will be accepted for judging without an accompanying recipe.

4-H members will not be present during the judging. Leaders, however, will have copies of the forms the judges will use, and members should check with them about the requirements of the projects they will be submitting.

Members planning to participate in this year's Dress Review on April 29 at Ford Motor Building are reminded to sew their best for Achievement Day. Twenty-Five per cent of the score given on Dress Review day will be based on the score received for good sewing on Achievement Day. Bring only the garments to achievement; leave the accessories at home. April 3 is the deadline for Dress Review cards to be back in the Wayne Extension Office.

There will be a Fun Festival of various talent acts on the evening of Achievement Day, beginning at 7.

Sumpter clinic to receive help of foundation

Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn has been notified by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek that it is the recipient of a $54,252 grant from the foundation which will be used to assist the hospital in its implementation of a family medical care and teaching center in Sumpter Township.

The Oakwood-Sumpter Family Medical Center, 24560 Sumpter Rd., began offering medical services to the Sumpter area community on Jan. 17.

The center was established to provide much needed medical care for residents of the community upon the request of the homeowners and senior citizens associations of the area.

The center provides supervised clinical experience for doctors in training in the family practice residency program of Oakwood Hospital. These young doctors interested in family practice as a career care for patients at the center under the supervision of Dr. Everal M.

Wakeman, associate director of medical education at Oakwood and other members of the Oakwood medical staff.

It is planned that undergraduate students of the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine will also be taught at the Center.

Robert DeVries, program director of W.K. Kellogg Foundation in a letter to Neil McGinniss, director of Oakwood Hospital, said:

"We share your belief that the initiation of an ambulatory health care center which also serves as a teaching base for first and second year family practice residents and undergraduate medical students has high potential. Clearly this demonstration offers an excellent prospect for service and leadership in the development of such an ambulatory health center and we wish you and your colleagues every success in this very interesting program."

State might pay primary costs

There may be a chance that area communities will not have to pay the cost of the state presidential primary.

State Sen. Milton Zaagman (R-32nd District) of Grand Rapids has proposed a bill that would allow counties, cities and townships to submit election cost bills to the state.

Although the actual cost of the primary won't be known until May 16, Zaagman estimates that it will run from between $450,000 to $750,000, but the State House Fiscal Agency puts the cost at $2.1 million.

Area communities have estimated costs of between $9,000 for Westland to $2,500 for Wayne, and most are concerned, because their budgets hadn't been planned to take on the extra expense of the elections.

Another proposal in the state legislature would require the state to reimburse cities with more than 90,000 people in full for the election, while giving smaller cities $180 per precinct to defray costs.

The $180 per precinct figure wouldn't cover the cost of an election for the less than 90,000 population communities, however.

Zaagman's bill, won't provide for wages for permanent public officials and staffs, rental of buildings or polling places or the cost incurred for special elections held in conjunction with the presidential primary.

Money for the payments is scheduled to come from the state general fund.

Taxpayer errors can be eliminated

Many taxpayer errors, particularly those that delay refunds, can be eliminated by using the pre-addressed label on the tax package received in the mail. Peel the label from the tax package and place it on your form 1040.

Income tax returns with labels can be quickly identified and processed since they contain necessary identifying information, Thomas A. Cardoza, district director of Internal Revenue for Michigan, said Monday.

If your name or address has changed, make the necessary corrections on the label and lightly strike through the wrong pre-printed information. If you have a refund due, this will help insure delivery of the check to the correct address.

Taxpayers also should be certain that their correct social security number is entered on the label before they file their return.

The filing deadline for 1971 tax returns is April 17.

Faust explains income tax hike

A mid-year hike in the state income tax may have strained most taxpayers' budgets, but now it has apparently become a source of confusion for many taxpayers preparing state income tax returns.

Responding to numerous inquiries as to how the tax rate for 1971 is derived, Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) said that the tax for the year 1971 should be computed at the rate of 3.14 per cent.

Explaining, Faust said that the state income tax went up 1.3 per cent — from 2.6 to 3.9 per cent — on Aug. 1, 1971.

Thus, the 1.3 per cent increase was in effect for the last five months of the year.

The 1.3 per cent is multiplied by the fraction of the year it was in effect (five-twelfths) to obtain a product of .54.

Add the .54 to 2.6, which was the state income tax rate for the first seven months of 1971, to obtain the 1971 tax rate for the full year — 3.14 per cent.

Additional information may be obtained from the Department of Treasury, Building, Lansing Mich., 48922, telephone (517) 373-2910.

Car dealers must post base price

New car dealers in Michigan were reminded Monday they may not post an auto's "sticker price" as its base price.

"An automobile dealer must post the base price, the price at which he actually sold cars during the base period rather than the sticker price," Thomas A. Cardoza, internal revenue director, said.

seller in a substantial number of transactions during the freeze base period, July 16 to Aug. 14.

Once determined, the base price does not change, Cardoza said. Recent price increases granted to auto manufacturers have no effect on a dealer's base prices.

Although the purchaser of a new car seldom pays the sticker price, Cardoza said, the sticker price may be the same as the base price if a dealer gave no discounts during the base period.

Five cuddly mixed breed puppies that were recently found at Haggerty and Riggs roads in Van Buren Township have been placed in friendly homes, according to Van Buren Township Dog Warden William Minyard.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lipkowski of 43500 Bemis Rd., Linda Sue Capelle of 14220 Martinsville Rd. and Arthur Makowski of 45122 Parris Dr., all of Belleville.

One of the puppies was given to a young unidentified boy reported to be suffering from leukemia, Minyard reported.

SEMCOG approves projects for funding

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has reviewed and approved more than $368 million in federal grants for projects in the seven-county Detroit area in 1971.

SEMCOG said the amount was triple that approved in 1970.

It explained that applications for items such as airports, highways, mass-transit systems, water or sewer lines and subsidized housing are sent to SEMCOG to determine whether they qualify under a master plan for the area.

SEMCOG allocates no money but its approval generally paves the way for the 100 communities which belong to SEMCOG to get the funds for the projects they desire, providing they meet all conditions.

If the project fails to get SEMCOG approval, it is sent to the state or federal agency involved without recommendation and in some cases this leads the government agencies to withhold money for such projects, SEMCOG said.

Of the 1971 funds, about $191 million were spent on water and environmental projects; $53 million on housing and $73 million on highway and freeway projects.

More than $50 million in projects were processed from Macomb County in 1971. Since then, Macomb County dropped out of SEMCOG and is going its own way. It has asked the federal government to accept future Macomb projects without a review by SEMCOG and is awaiting a decision.

Canton joins effort to prevent pollution

Canton Township has joined the growing vanguard of communities determined to prevent the pollution of the Huron River.

The township Board of Trustees adopted a resolution Tuesday night stating its opposition to any plan for sewage treatment facilities to be located on the Huron River.

The resolution was patterned after a similar resolution adopted by the Huron Township Board of Trustees March 8.

The resolutions stipulated that sewage treatment plants be located near Lake Erie with interceptor sewers built to service the southeastern portion of Michigan.

A triple pronged effort in Wayne, Washtenaw and Oakland counties has evolved to provide water quality management in southeastern Michigan.

Many of the communities in the three counties fear that current use of the Huron River has endangered its purity. Some communities such as Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti have plans to build a sewer system up the Huron.

A loosely-knit organization of municipalities was formed in September, 1971, to develop sound water quality management and to propose waste water treatment plants to abate pollution of the Huron.

In December, Ann Arbor passed a resolution stating its opposition to inclusion in the final plans for a waste water system.

Canton Township's engineering consultant recommended to the Board of Trustees that it support the plan.

"It's essential to Canton," said Bob Wade of Wade, Trim and Associates. "Canton will need such a system by the time it reaches 100 per cent growth."

Wade related that current ideas on the sewage treatment facilities would build an interceptor sewer along the eastern boundary of the township within five years.

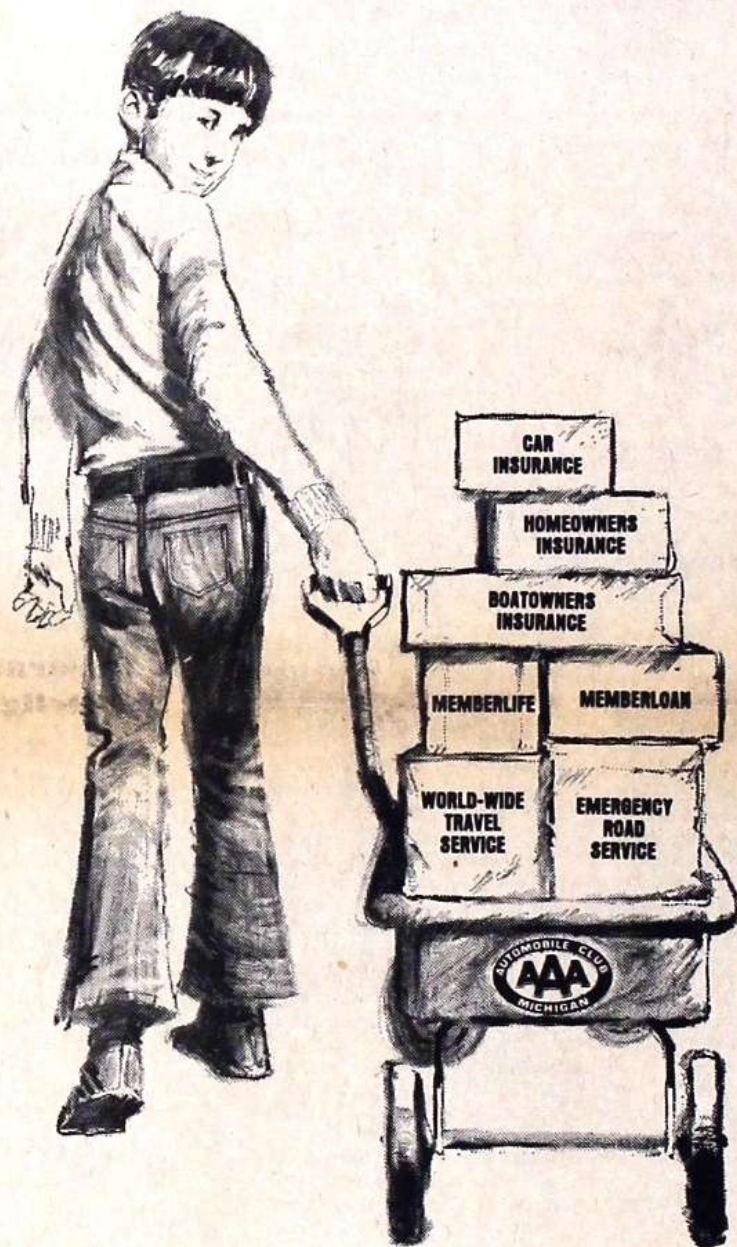

"Within five years, Canton will find it vital," the consultant said.

Board considers giving approval on liquor license

The Romulus Board of Education has taken under advisement a request from the Shady Hollow Golf Club, 34777 Smith Rd., Romulus, for written approval stating the school board has no objections to its Class C liquor license. The golf club, owned by Alexander Dul of 23221 Bonair St., Dearborn Heights, recently was approved for a Class C license by the Romulus City Council.

A communication from Dul requested the school board to state it has no objections. School Supt. Robert L. McConeghy reported to the school board that a state ruling requires licensed liquor establishments be a minimum of 500 feet from a school building, according to the state method of measuring. School Board Vice-President Gerald Budd made a motion that the request be taken under advisement. He was supported by board member Jason P. Lovette. The motion was approved unanimously.

Van Buren review board hears 78 cases

The VanBuren Township Board of Review conducted hearings on 78 property assessment cases during its 1972 sessions held at the township hall. In 1971, the board of review conducted hearings on 70 cases.

Cases heard by the Board of Review were not only those of persons residing in the township, but also persons living outside of the side of the township but owning property in VanBuren Township.

G. Elton Gollwitzer, township supervisor said a majority of the cases were so-called hardship cases and adjustments were requested, while others involved complaints of too high property tax levies for 1972. Some tax adjustments were made, it was reported.

The Belleville Board of Review heard property tax assessment appeals in eight cases. This compares with four cases in 1971.

Schools receive only part of contingency

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction has recommended there be no contingency fund withholding from state school aid payments next year — at the same time recommending those funds withheld this year be only partially returned to local districts.

Dr. John W. Porter made the recommendation because of difficulty in obtaining information regarding how much of the contingency funds local districts actually need in order to operate without a deficit.

The contingency fund was authorized by the legislature in the current state school aid act as a measure to maintain a balanced state budget. The statute also requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction to report and make recommendations to the appropriations and Education Committees of the legislature relating to the disposition of any monies that would be available in the fund if the state's general fund balances permitted.

A two-fold problem was created in the contingency fund language, Porter has advised.

"First, school districts are constitutionally required to operate on a balanced budget, and most of Michigan's school districts this year have complied, thus reducing their services to compensate for the portion of their state aid payments withheld for the contingency fund," he explained.

"Second, as long as local school districts have several options available to them to respond to the contingency withholding, it is difficult for the State Department of Education to obtain any uniform needs pattern for the required recommendations as to possible restoration of the funds," Porter said.

"Compounding this is the problem faced by school administrators who don't know until spring what money, if any, will be available to them from the fund. If they adopt a budget which includes the contingency withholdings and funds aren't restored, they end up operating at a deficit," Porter said.

If districts adopt an austerity budget and wait until they are told in the spring if they have additional monies coming from the fund, they place themselves in the possible jeopardy of being falsely accused of not really needing the money, Porter added.

The superintendent met with the legislative committee chairman last week to go over a district-by-district financial report and advise them as to his recommendations on restoration of the withheld funds.

He told them the evidence was not substantial enough at this time to recommend the full return of all funds withheld this year from schools.

"This was a hard decision to make, especially considering that the state's largest school districts have indicated that the withholding is causing severe problems and possible deficit financing, and that we know definitely of 53 districts operating at deficit levels," Porter stated.

He recommended the same reduction formula be applied to state aid as was applied to appropriations for state government units last December, when part of their funds originally withheld on a contingency basis were restored.

This course, if funds are available, would return approximately $10 million to the schools.
